Body found at Burger King

By Jayne W. Miller
News Editor

WILMINGTON – A deceased man was found inside a vehicle at the Burger King restaurant Monday morning, confirmed Wilmington Police Tuesday.

Police received the report of a body at 7:10 am and an officer responded to the restaurant at 280 Lowell Street a few minutes later. That Burger King location is open from 6 AM to 12 AM on Mondays, according to a website.

"It doesn't appear any foul play is involved, though the case is currently under investigation," said Lt. Daniel Murray.

He referred calls to the Middlesex District Attorney's office for further information. A spokesperson for the DA's office declined to comment, however, reaffirming that since foul play is not suspected, and therefore no crime committed, The deceased man's identity was not released nor a cause of death.

Lt. Brian Pupa is investigating the matter.

On Track

Athletic field and track set to open

WILMINGTON—Nothing can stand without a foundation.

And the new Wilmington High School now has one.

"You can now see the foundation, which makes it even more exciting," said Superintendent Joanne Benton.

A year ago, appeals put the project on-hold. Kevin MacDonald and other residents vowed to stop the new high school, arguing that it would spew oil into the nearby wetlands, thus damaging the environment.

But all of that has ended. Back in April, the project broke ground. State Treasurer Steve Grossman, among others, attended the ceremony.

And it continues to move ever-closer to completion.

"Everything's going well right now," she said. "We are on-schedule to open in February, 2015."

But Wilmington sports will see a piece of the new facility sooner.

"We're concentrating on getting the turf field in for the football season," she said. The track will be ready by August 26.

The new Wilmington High School is expected to hold 960 students. It will cost about $82 million in total, with 55 percent of that figure reimbursed by the Massachusetts School Building Authority

Returning Vets - You are not alone

The Crier talks with community Veteran Agents about high suicide rates and supporting our local vets.

By Sharon Adelman Crowley
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - TEWKSBURY - In a statement from the U.S. Department of Defense, the Army released data showing more than two dozen potential suicides among active duty soldiers during the month of June, 2013. The previous month showed similar statistics. Since 2012, the Army has reported 262 potential active duty suicides: Two-hundred eight have been confirmed. Fifty-four are still under investigation.

"They have to know they are not alone. There are a lot of resources out there for them," Wilmington Veteran's Agent Louis Cimaglia said about the servicemen and women who return home from deployment. "There are a lot of resources out there for these kids." Cimaglia says when we talk about veterans today, we are not always referring to those from the Vietnam War era, but soldiers as young as 18-years

DPW completes major summer projects

Federal Street will be closed next week for repairs

By Jon Bishop
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON—The Department of Public Works has completed most of its major paving projects.

"We're rounding out the summer now," said Assistant Public Works Superintendent Jamie Magaldi.

Summer, he said, is an ideal time to pave.

They've paved Grove Avenue, Glen Road, Middlesex Avenue, and Wing Road. Their most recent was Andover Street, which they finished last week. Federal Street is up next. It will be closed from Monday, August 12 through Friday, August 23. Only neighborhood traffic will be allowed

Coming up next are two fall projects: The paving of Ames Street and the inclusion of a short sidewalk at the intersection of Woburn Street and Crystal Road.

"This summer, we tried to get a bulk of our Priority One paving done," he said. "Our main roads, we got done before the school buses."

Everything was funded by Chapter 90 state funds.

"So we sent that to the Chapter 90 office at MASS DOT for approval," he said, an action taken back in the spring.

"It seemed to work out pretty well," he said.

In addition to side projects, the DPW also has to do regular maintenance, which Magaldi said that they try to sneak-in whenever possible.

One such project is the addition of two walkways at Section N of the cemetery.

He said that they're also finishing drainage and pavement at the intersection of Cunningham Street and Lexington Street. An area that frequently floods.

Since they've finished a lot of heavy projects, the DPW will be in a good position come fall, he said.

"We're freeing up a lot of our fall for regular maintenance work," he said.

He also noted the fast-approaching winter season.

"We're going to be getting our snow contract...within the next six weeks or so," he said. "It's really never too early to start that project."

Magaldi was pleased to have completed so much.

"Overall, I'm really happy with our turnout this year," he said. "We had a pretty successful year."

"If it hadn't been for Cotton Eyed Joe..."

1963 vacation nightmare

Greek Army tried to draft Wilmington teacher

By Larz F. Neilson
Editor Emeritus

In the 1960s, it was not uncommon for young men to be drafted into the military, and for others to try to avoid the draft.

Jim Demos ran into a different kind of draft problem in 1963. He and his wife went to Greece on a five-week vacation, and the Greek army tried to draft him.

Faced with many men trying to escape the draft, Greece, in April 1963, passed a law saying that if you were Greek, you had to serve two years in the army. The law took effect on July 1, 1963.

Nine days later, when Jim and Elinor arrived in Athens, authorities stamped his passport saying that he could not leave the country. He spent the first nine days of his vacation in draft hell, so to speak.

Jim's parents had come to the U.S. from Greece in the early 1930s, settling in Cambridge, and it was there that he was born in 1934. They went back to Greece in 1939, and were caught up in World War II. Jim's mother died. The Nazis, who had it on record that he owhed a shotgun, picked up his father. He told them that the Greek government had confiscated it, but the Nazis would not release him.

Jim and his brother lived through World War II as virtual orphans on the streets of Athens. After the war, some Communists picked them up. One song that the Communists had played was set to the tune of "Oh! Susanna".

They were eventually reunited with their father and returned to the U.S. in 1946.

The boys were illiterate when they arrived back in the United States where they were enrolled in the Cambridge schools.

At one point, the song "Oh! Susanna" was played in school. Jim and his brother looked at each other, saying, "They're here!"

Jim excelled in football, making the varsity team in his freshman year. Being small, he could scoot through the line and hit in the opponent's backfield. He earned the nickname, the "Greek submarine." In his junior year, he was elected class vice-president.

Jim attended Suffolk University, and in 1958, he was hired to teach special education in Wilmington. He and Elinor moved to Wilmington in 1961.

Two years later, they went to Greece on vacation. But when they arrived in Athens, his passport was stamped with a notice that he was not to leave the country. He was given a draft notice and was told to report to the Greek draft board. He tried to explain that he was an American-born citizen, not a Greek subject, but the authorities would not listen.

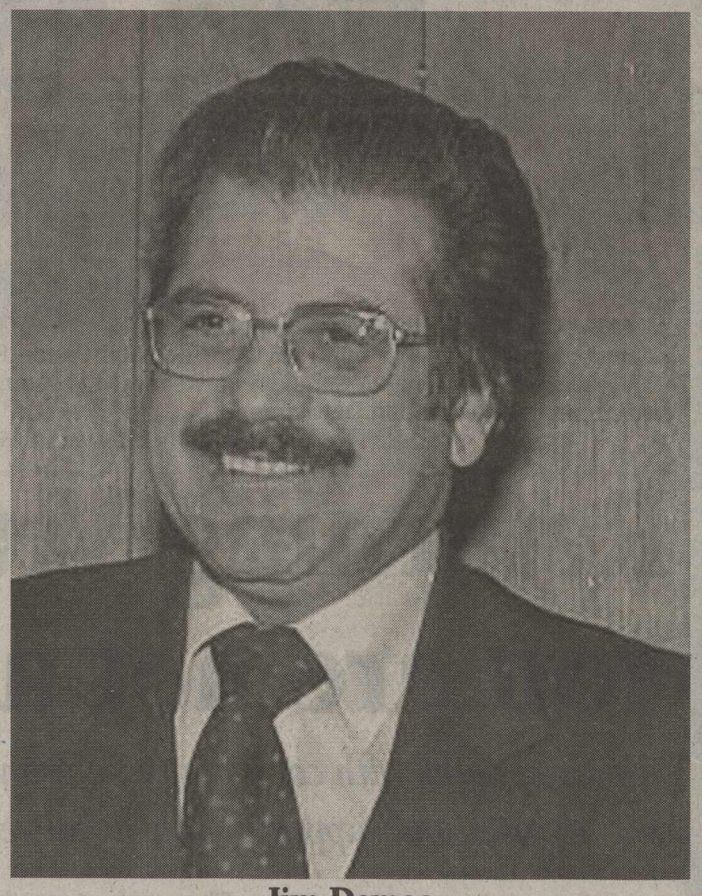
A friend who accompanied the couple on the trip was also given a draft notice.

The next day, the two men went to the American Embassy, only to be told that they were in a mess, and the embassy could not help. The law said that anyone with a Greek name was a Greek subject, and could be drafted. Although it was written to apply to draft dodgers, it apparently was also being applied to tourists - and Demos and his friend were among the first to be snagged by it. The man at the embassy, Mr. V, said the two men would have to resolve it themselves at the Greek Pentagon.

At the Pentagon, Demos had to get in line and go through checkpoints to get a pass. Then he was sent to a room full of people, all pushing and shoving in an effort to have their problems heard. After a half an hour, Jim was finally able to speak to the officer. Jim explained his situation.

The officer threw down his passport, ignored him, and continued to hear problems of other people. Demos stood there and refused to leave.

Finally the officer shouted at him that even though he was American-born, he was still a Greek subject, and that he could not leave until he had fulfilled his military obligation. He told Jim to go to the town where his father was born and sign up for the draft.



Jim Demos

Jim responded that he would not sign any papers, and that his American passport stated that he might lose his US nationality if he served in the armed forces of a foreign state.

The officer shouted back that he was to do as ordered, and that he had no choice. Then he said that after Jim signed up for the draft, he would be allowed to leave without any active duty, but that he would have to pay for his two years service.

In other words, this was all about money.

He returned to the American Embassy and was told that if he got a lawyer, and could prove that he had been out of Greece for 10 years prior to his draft age, this would exempt him. Demos did not want to do that.

So he was sent to a Mr. K, a counselor in the embassy, who was to give him a letter stating that he (Demos) did not fall under the Greek draft law, and that he was not a Greek draft dodger. However, Mr. K refused. He did not believe that Demos was an American-born citizen. Even when shown embassy records showing that the boys had left on Feb. 2, 1946 on the SS Gripsholu with US passports, he said no. Demos showed him his present passport, a copy of his birth certificate from Cambridge, Mass., his Mass. driver's license and his international driver's license, issued in the US. With all those documents, Mr. K still would not believe Demos was an American.

Demos asked Mr. K what he needed to do to prove he was an American citizen. He wanted Demos to write to the IRS for his income tax returns, to the Cambridge School Department for a record of his attending school in the U.S., and to the parish priest, who was to send his church records with the seal of the church, backed up by a seal from Cambridge City Hall, and also a letter of approval from the Greek consulate in Boston.

Demos sent a telegram to his brother to get working on all that information.

Mr. V sent him to the head of the Greek Registry of Police, which had records of people entering and leaving the country. He could probably get a letter there with the information he needed, and which Mr. K refused to do. But first Demos had to write a letter then take it to a typing office to have it translated.

That done, Demos took the letter to the Registry, which wouldn't accept it. They sent him to another department for a permission slip for him to receive the information. Then came another two-day run-around, getting stamps of approval.

On the third day, Demos finally got the information, which Mr. K could have given him in one hour. Demos took it to Mr. V who told him to take it the Pentagon.

This was his third trip to the Pentagon. He was delayed until almost closing time, but he did get approval to leave the country. The nine-day ordeal was over.

If you think that the Demoses doubted they would ever visit Greece again, you are right. In his account of the ordeal, published in the Town Crier on Sept. 12, 1963, that is what Jim wrote. However, they have gone back three times. The next visit was only two years later. They flew to London, bought a car, and drove through Europe. In Athens, they were caught in the middle of a riot against the Greek government. Rioters were rocking the car, and someone threw a poster of the prime minister on the windshield. It then was thrown on the ground. Demos' friend picked it up, and they managed to make their way out of the crowd.

Demos has had a lifelong commitment to education. He earned a Master's Degree at Salem State College and a Doctorate at Boston College. He taught for eight years in the Wilmington and Chelmsford school systems. For four years, he was the executive director of alternative education and rehabilitation for the Greater Lowell Association for Retarded Citizens. For more than ten years, he was the administrator for special education for the cities of Lowell and Medford. In Wilmington, he served 15 years on the Wilmington School Committee, where he was known as a strong advocate for special education. Jim and Elinor raised three children. He is now retired.

It's Your Money

COLLEGE SAVINGS - 529 OR CUSTODIAL ACCOUNT

Many parents and grandparents wisely start putting away funds to pay college tuition almost as soon as a child is born. But what's the best way to do it?
Custodial accounts, under the Uniform Gift to Minors Act, were popular a generation ago. At that time, any gains and dividends were taxed at the child's low tax rates; now, investment income over $2,000 for children under 19—or full-time students under 24—is taxed at the parent's higher rate. More: because the money in a custodial account belongs to the youngster, it becomes an issue on a financial aid form.
A 529, though, grows tax-deferred and earnings can be used tax-free for qualified college costs. Anyone can open such accounts, and some states offer state-tax deductions for the account owners. Multiple accounts can be opened for a child, and excess funds can be rolled over for the benefit of family members.

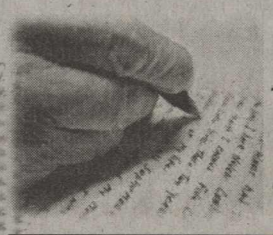
OPINION



Letters to the editor

Risks outweigh rewards

Dear Tewksbury Residents,

We would like to voice our opposition of Penn Gaming Company's proposal to build and manage a slots parlor in Tewksbury. We believe that the problems that would be created far outweigh the promised monetary benefits.

Our reasons for opposition are many but we believe the primary one to be the small town supportive community of Tewksbury will be changed forever. The increased traffic, twenty four hours a day, seven days a week, the decreased property values, the need for additional infrastructure and personnel and the increased crime are significant reasons it will have a detrimental impact on our town. Other communities that have casinos have been negatively impacted over time.

Instead of casinos, we are supportive of commercial development in Tewksbury that would generate revenue for the town, provide sustainable jobs and be a source of pride for our community of Tewksbury.

Please join us in voting NO for the proposal of gaming in Tewksbury.

Sincerely,

Philip & Kristen Polimeno & Larry & Sandy Polimeno

Support the Selectmen, but Vote Down the Slots

Dear Editor,

I am a scientist by training, so I like to look at data, studies, etc. before forming my opinion. However, I must admit, when I learned that the selectmen had approved the host agreement for Penn Gaming, I was less than pleased, and immediately questioned why they would ever consider doing that to Tewksbury. I have voted for Mr. Wilson twice, and Mr. Wentworth this time, and have worked with our Town Manager several times. I was disappointed that they would support this. Having Mr. Wilson's email handy, I sent him an email to find out the details, because there had to be something I was missing. As usual he was quick to respond, and quick to provide information. We traded a handful of emails, I read several online studies, and came to a position against the Tewksbury Slots Parlor.

So let's look at the data...Mr. Wilson provided me some initial estimates of revenue that we have all seen on Patch and elsewhere that were pretty attractive. I served on the Budget Advisory Committee to the School Committee several years ago when we were trying to close a nearly $2 million dollar gap, and helped advise the School Committee on what programs and initiatives to cut or postpone to meet budget. While things have improved some in that area, there are plenty of things that our town could find to spend $4 million on, whether it be improved roads, more teachers, or even simply paying down our debt.

So why would I personally turn away from this gift horse? Well, when we just look at the proposed gross revenue, we are only looking at the front of that horse, forgetting the other end.

As many have discussed on these boards, there are a number of studies that have shown pretty conclusively that housing prices are diminished near a casino. The data on crime is a little less clear, but generally crime is increased around a casino, and with our current problems at a few locations near 495, do we want to add another potential trouble spot? Problem gambling increases dramatically in the immediate area of a casino, as do bankruptcies. How many vacant properties do we have now in town, and what will the cost be to our neighborhoods when members of our communities get in over their heads and lose their homes? We are just digging out of the financial collapse of 2008, do we want to risk taking a large step backwards again? Ask the proprietors of the many restaurants and bars in town what they think of a slots parlor in town that will draw business away from them as people find the allure of the one armed bandits a better place to deposit their disposable income.

Finally, and this is even harder to quantify, what is Tewksbury known for? Some might think of it as the former Carnation Capital of the World or the hometown of Anne Sullivan. To most of us it is a great place to raise our children. In 2000 when my wife and I were looking for a town to move to from Medford, we looked at school profiles, town profiles, and investigated what each town was about. While we have come to know and love Tewksbury over the past 13 years, had there been a slot parlor in Tewksbury back then, we would have looked for a house in Billerica, Wilmington, or elsewhere. Why would a young couple looking to lay down roots choose the "slots town?" Proponents of the Slot Parlor point out that it is in a secluded location, right off of 495, and it will never impact the vast majority of our residents. Even if that were true (and I don't believe that it is as I discussed above), do we think that Penn is going to quietly operate their little slot parlor in the woods? No, they are doing this to make money, so understandably they will advertise. Billboards, radio ads, TV ads, etc. all shouting out "Come to Tewksbury, MA, the home of Hollywood Slots!"

So let's look at the data again. On the one hand we have a dependable stream of revenue in the $3-4 million range for the next 10-20 years and approximately 500 jobs (albeit, mostly low-wage). Hard to pass up. However, on the other side of the ledger we have:

-Decreased Home Values
-Increased Crime
-Increased Gambling Problems for some of our citizens
-Increased Bankruptcies
-Decreased revenue to our local businesses with likely lost jobs
-Defining Tewksbury as the Home of Hollywood Slots

To me, that is case closed. This proposal is bad for Tewksbury in so many ways. However, while I will do everything I can to defeat this proposal, I want to thank our selectmen and our town manager for allowing us to make this decision. I think they are wrong to support this, but I know they are trying to improve our community, and they deserve our respect for that.

Let's respectfully say no to a Slot Parlor on August 20th!

Sincerely,

Bruce Panilaitis, Ph.D.

Just One Voice

Dear Editor,

The landscape of Tewksbury could forever be changed.

The residents of Tewksbury have a tremendous responsibility to exercise their right to vote on August 20 at Town Meeting; Tewksbury High School; 7:00 PM.

Penn National is proposing to build a Slots Casino at the Ames Pond. This proposal will, no doubt, reap financial benefits for the town. The question each resident must ask oneself: "Is this establishment the answer to our budget problems?"

Respecting wherever you stand on the issue, I urge you to make the time to let your voice be heard, as the results of this vote will have lasting impacts for generations to come.

For me personally, I am opposed to the proposed Slots Casino facility. While I can see the fiscal positives and could present a parade of horribles against, the following is my top ten list of facts which helped guide and solidify my position:

10. Slot Casino Parlors operate 7 days a week, 24 hours a day.

9. Penn National will heavily market this Slot Parlor far beyond our borders.

8. Slot Casino Parlors are unique establishments that cannot be compared to any current business in our community or our surrounding communities.

7. We cannot predict the future and therefore cannot determine how this business will impact our community in future years.

6. The proposal and process has been "rushed" due to state deadlines.

5. Penn National's site planning has become Tewksbury's emergency.

4. Area traffic will be negatively impacted.

3. To date, no plan has been established to address traffic concerns.

2. I have faith in our local officials to find other viable options for this property in the future, which will benefit our tax base.

And the number one reason I am opposed to the Slot Casino Parlor is...

1. The financial benefits alone are not reason enough for me to vote to change Tewksbury forever.

I admire and stand with our State delegation, Senator Finegold, Representative Miceli, and Representative Lyons in opposing this Slot Casino pitch for Tewksbury.

I wish I was more confident in the State's new Gaming Commission. I have no reason to think they are not ethical nor am I suggesting that. It is simply hard for me to believe the greater good of the public is the top priority when big businesses with extraordinary amounts of capital are factors in determining what is best for local communities.

Ultimately, the choice belongs to us. Even if your views are different than mine, this is an opportunity not to be missed. Each voter in Tewksbury must stand and be heard. Please take the time and effort to join me on August 20, 2013; 7:00PM; Tewksbury High School to exercise your one voice!

Respectfully
Anne Marie Stronach

Mother says thanks for compassionate care for son

Dear Editor,

I would like to thank the Wilmington School System for always going above and beyond with my son who has a very rare progressive disease. The staff have seen Ethan at his best and Ethan at his sickest. They have treated us all like family and have gone above and beyond to accommodate his needs and mine. Ethan has new adventures coming next year at the Shawsheen school but Boutwell will always hold a special place in our hearts. A big special thank you to Nurse Hilliard for being not only a nurse but a second mom, without you there to watch over Ethan everyday, I would have lost it. Mrs . V thank you for walking by Ethan's side every moment to make sure he doesn't fall but still has his independence, and for telling him silly jokes that he loves to repeat.

Thank you to all of his teachers and therapists but a special thank you to the students. Thank you for including Ethan, for treating him like a typical little boy, for inviting him to birthday parties and to sit with you at snack; you may only be 5 or 6 years old but your kindness, compassion and empathy for a very sick fellow classmate makes me have faith in every single one of you and what wonderful adults you will all grow up to be.

Thank you from the bottom of our hearts,

Jennifer, Brea and Ethan Gentry

Speak Out!

Casino opposition group meeting next week

TEWKSBURY - Residents are invited to attend an informational meeting on Tuesday, August 13, at Tewksbury Country Club from 7 pm - 9 pm.

"Come and Listen to some real information as to why we don't want slots now and a Casino later in Tewksbury," says Vincent Fratalia in a statement to the Town Crier.

Speakers include former State Senator Sue Tucker, State Representative Jim Miceli, and Tom Larkin, a well-known anti-slots activist and psychologist.

The group has concerns about the revenue projections, traffic impacts, property values, crime, drugs, drinking, burglary, and car thefts.

No Slots Tewksbury is hosting the event as an informational meeting to inform residents of its opposition to the proposed slot parlor.

Senator Finegold Announces 71st Citizens' Legislative Seminar in October

Invites Constituents to Come Learn the Legislative Process

BOSTON, MA - Senator Barry Finegold announced today that the 71st Citizens' Legislative Seminar (CLS) will be held this fall on Tuesday, October 15th and Wednesday, October 16th from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the State House.

"The Citizens' Legislative Seminar is a great opportunity for residents from across the Commonwealth to learn about the legislative process and witness first-hand how bills are heard, debated and passed," said Senator Finegold (D-Andover). "I always look forward to the Seminar and I hope to see the 2nd Essex and Middlesex District well-represented this year."

CLS is a citizen seminar that aims to better educate the public on the Commonwealth's legislative process. Established in 1976 through a collaborative effort of the Massachusetts Senate and the University of Massachusetts, this two-day seminar features presentations by Senators and staff on aspects of the day-to-day experience of legislators in the Commonwealth. Topics will include the history and process of the Legislature, the parliamentary role of the Clerk of the Senate and the future of the Legislature.

The CLS culminates with a simulated legislative hearing and Senate session where participants are invited to use what they have learned and participate as "Senators" in the Senate Chamber in order to have a first-hand experience of the legislative process.

All residents of the 2nd Essex and Middlesex District (Andover, Dracut, Lawrence and Tewksbury) are invited to contact Senator Finegold's Office at 617-722-1612 by Monday, September 9th in order to be nominated. Participation is on a first come, first serve basis.

Wilmington Farmers Market

Write letters to soldiers this week

WILMINGTON - Dull cutlery? No more. Come to the Wilmington Farmers Market on Sunday, August 11 between 10:30 and 1:30 to get your knives, scissors and gardening shears sharpened by Tom of National Sharpening. This week the WFM will be celebrating island life with a Hawaiian theme. Our vendors will be Farmer Dave's, Gaouette Farm, Nagog Hill Farm, Foxboro Cheese, Seafood Express, Danish Pastry House, Let's Get Baked Breads, Fior D'Italia, 27 West Coffee Beans and Tortured Orchard.

At the Community Table, iPod for Wounded Veterans will be selling bracelets, raffling Red Sox tickets, collecting iPods, and providing supplies to your kids so they can write letters to the troops. If your child is a student at the Shawsheen or West Intermediate School, you can enter the PAC's free raffle for a basket of school supplies.

For information, recipes and more, please visit our website: www.wilmingtonfarmersmarket.com or like us on Facebook, follow us on Twitter, and find us on Pinterest. We look forward to seeing you at the Swain Green (next to the Fourth of July Building) this Sunday!

Angelo and Dora Figueiredo of Wilmington are pleased to announce the engagement of thier daughter Amanda Figueiredo to Ryan McDonald of Belleville, New Jersey. The groom is the son of Gary McDonald.

Amanda is a nurse working at Children's Hospital in boston. Ryan is currently serving in the U.S. Navy and is stationed in Pearl Harbor, Honolulu, Hawaii.

A wedding date has been set for June 7, 2014 at the Renaissance Country Club, Haverhill, MA

Tom Feinel (right, wearing plaid shorts) is planning his Eagle project and asking for support from the community. Join him at Villanova Hall Friday the 16th from 6 - 10 p.m.

August 16th Villanova Hall

Fundraiser for Eagle project

WILMINGTON - The highest rank in Scouting in the rank of Eagle. In recent years several boys have achieved it, through a lot of hard work, coordination of fellow Scouts to assist and management of assetts. Tom Feindel is working on his Eagle Scout project. Each Scout must complete a project before attaining the rank.

Friday, August 16th he is holding a fundraiser at St. Thomas' Villanova Hall, 126 Middlesex Ave. in Wilmington and will run from 6:00-10:00 PM.

There will be games, pizza, baked goods, drinks, and music. Admission will be $5.00 per person.

All proceeds will go toward paying for his Eagle project - the construction of and installation of a wash sink and counter outside the bathroom area and the overhang over the sink and existing bathroom doors at Wilmington's Camp 40 Acres.

Camp 40 Acres is a non-profit reservation in North Wilmington that has been used for Scouting activities for more than half a century.

Tom is a member of Scout Troop 136 and he is inviting anyone to join him at Villanova Hall to help out.

He will have a poster board with pictures and plans to show to people who come to the fundraiser.

NO SLOTS TEWKSBURY

FACTS ABOUT AUGUST 20 SPECIAL TOWN VOTE

Where is the proposed location for the slot parlor? Penn National Gaming is pitching a slot parlor on Rt. 133, at Ames Pond Park…55 acres in total at 100, 200, and 300 Ames Pond Park.

What does a 'NO' vote mean? It is a vote against a slot parlor in the town of Tewksbury!

What did the independent impact study show? No impact study was ever completed! The Board of Selectmen is now allowing Penn to evaluate themselves. Don't fall for that!

Didn't they promise $4M in annual revenue? What Penn said and the agreement Penn signed were very different! The only guaranteed payment to the town is roughly $1M! The rest of that is property taxes that would be the same for any building. The assessed property value would need to be extremely high in order to yield $3M in property taxes! This will never happen!

Won't this help other businesses? No! Money spent at the slot parlor is money not spent at local restaurants, shops, and other small businesses in our community.

Will our property values increase? No! An independent study by the National Board of Realtors concluded that property values would decrease 1.1-2.3%!

What about the increased traffic? It's huge! Penn stated the typical weekend traffic increase would be 4000-5000 cars per day!

Won't this bring good jobs to Tewksbury? No! Casino positions regularly make the Forbes list of the worst paying jobs in America! In addition, Penn is not required to hire Tewksbury residents.

How much land will be rezoned? 55 acres! Enough to expand as a full casino in the future! The Host agreement even ALLOWS for future expansion.

What else should I know about this? The facility would be open 24/7, house 1250 slot machines, an entertainment venue and restaurants! It would have a special license to serve alcohol starting at 8:00am for free…within a mile of two elementary schools and two daycare centers! Plus, there is always a social cost to the region including increased crime, addiction, suicide, youth gambling, and bankruptcy.

VOTE "NO" ON TUESDAY, AUGUST 20, 7:00 pm Tewksbury High School

Only we can stop this. Your vote is critical!

Let's Hear it!!

Your Two Cents...

People are noticing

To the man in black that I see walking down Glen Road just about every single day. I have watched you over the months and seen the pounds melting away. Your hard work and endurance is inspirational. You have lead me to reevaluate my own health and exercise habits and I want to thank you. Keep up the great work...you look phenomenal!!
Wilmington

Slots not good for business

Mr. Todd Johnson, in regard to your letter, do your really think Raytheon and Thermo Fisher will want to be near such a negative place? They have an obligation to their work force to have a safe and secure environment. Most of your new revenue will be spent on more police and security for the town.

As Rep. Miceli said to you at the Selectmens' Meeting, once you let this happen the town will lose control.
Tewksbury

Water thief strikes cooler

As we all know it has been a very hot summer, so every week I leave out a cooler filled with water for the trash/recycling guys. This week someone stole my cooler filled with water before the trash/recycling guys even came. Work a day with them in that heat and tell me how fast you would steal a cooler filled with water that was not for you?
Wilmington

Mistreatment of frog

Years ago I saw a disturbing scene that still gives me the creeps. I saw a frog lying on Kearsage Street in Tewksbury in a puddle of blood. I thought (or someone told me) that a wicked person put a firecracker in the frog's mouth. Shame on that person! How would you like it if someone put a firecracker in your mouth?! You know who you are! God will (or probably has) exact revenge on that person. This is that animal's planet too.
Tewksbury

Keeping the streets safe

I really like it when Tewksbury police cruisers are parked at the bottom of Truman Ave. waiting for speeders. That avenue is connected to my street. I feel safe.

Wilmington Sons of Italy supports Varsity Athletics

WILMINGTON - Thanks to the generosity of the Wilmington Sons of Italy Lodge #2183, several varsity teams sported new uniforms this past school year. The local lodge donated over $20,000 for the new uniforms, which include Varsity Hockey, Boys and Girls Lacrosse, Boys and Girls Track, and Baseball.

Athletic Director Edward Harrison thanked the Wilmington Sons of Italy Lodge for their continued support of the athletic department and the student athletes at Wilmington High School.

Last Fall the Wilmington Sons of Italy Lodge became the first local organization inducted into the Wilmington High School Hall of Fame.

Singer Tara Morgan to perform on WCTV show

Ipods for Wounded Veterans to host Country & Western vocalist

WILMINGTON - On Thursday, August 15th, iPods For Wounded Veterans will be presenting a special live entertainment TV program at the studios of Wilmington Community Television (WCTV) on Waltham Street in Wilmington at 7:00 PM. Country & Western vocalist Tara Morgan will be performing a live one-hour program. Her program will be broadcast on Comcast channel 9 and Verizon channel 37. There will be very limited studio seating for this performance at no cost. If you would like to come and see her live performance, call 603-770-5765 to make your seating reservation.

Tara Morgan has been singing publicly since the age of eight when she first sang the National Anthem at a local figure skating show. By the age of 11, she was honored to begin singing at the City of Gardner's Veterans Day and Memorial Day ceremonies, which she has continued to do over the past 12 years. Tara has made guest appearances with various bands all over New England and has won numerous awards for her vocals throughout the years. Tara has opened up for big names in the Country music world, including Darius Rucker and Gary Allen. Frequently known for her powerful rendition of the National Anthem, she is involved with different sporting organizations throughout New England and has opened up three National Motocross races in the past three years. After graduating from college with her Bachelors of Science in Nursing, Tara has been working as a Registered nurse and just recently started as the Nurse Manager at a Veteran's facility close to her hometown. Tara states that both of her passions, singing and nursing, are focused on the Veterans, and she wouldn't have it any other way.

OBITUARIES

Richard "Rich" Feeney

Wood finisher Straight Line Construction

WILMINGTON - Richard "Rich" Feeney, age 41, a life-long resident of Wilmington, died tragically on Tuesday, July 30, 2013.

Born on July 23, 1972, Rich was the cherished son of Antoinetta (D'Errico) Feeney of Wilmington and the late Robert Feeney, Sr. Rich was raised in Wilmington and graduated with the class of 1992.

At the time of his death, Rich was employed at Straight Line Construction as wood finisher. He loved his job and the people he worked with. He will be remembered as a "fun loving" guy who loved to make people laugh. Rich was also an avid sports fan and especially enjoyed watching the New England sports teams.

Besides his mother, who survives him, Rich is also survived by his daughter, Nicole Marie Feeney of Missouri and her mother, Stephanie Golini of Billerica, his brothers and sister Robert Feeney, Jr. and Nicole of Lowell, Thomas and Brenda Feeney of Tyngsboro, Karen Feeney Lojek and Joe of Methuen, brother-in-law of the late Richard Lojek, grandson of the late Vincent and Anna D'Errico and Arlene Ayer. Rich leaves behind his beloved companion Katrina Ferrari, her children, Chantel Ferrari and Jessica Ferrari and her grandson, Damien Bizarria all of Wilmington. Rich is also survived by many nieces, nephews, aunts, uncles, cousins, and his beloved dog, the late "Lady."

Services for Rich are incomplete at this time. Please check our website for updates at www.nicholsfuneralhome.com . Donations in Rich's memory may be made to Local Heroes, Inc., P.O. Box 536, Wilmington, MA 01887.

Michael P. Kaszynski

Formerly of Wilmington

WOBURN - Michael P. Kaszynski, age 66, of Woburn, passed away unexpectedly on August 1st, 2013, at his home. Beloved son of the late Frank and Mary (Rawinski) Kaszynski, dear brother Frank Kaszynski and his wife Nancy of Belmont, Robert Kaszynski and his wife Yvette of Kittery, ME, Richard Kaszynski and his wife Terry of Lynnfield and Maureen Kaszynski of Watertown, loving uncle of Erik Kaszynski, Kyra Kaszynski, Sabre Kaszynski, Jill Kaszynski, and Brian Kaszynski and his wife Gail, great-uncle of Julia, Colby and Lindsey.

Celebrate the Art of Spoken Verse

The Whittier Home Museum and Tapestry of Voices invite you to its 15th annual collaborative readings from the poetry of John Greenleaf Whittier on Sunday, August 11 from 3-4:30 p.m. The poetry readings will take place in the Victorian garden of the Whittier Home Museum, 86 Friend Street, Amesbury.

"Return to an ancient tradition," says Cynthia Costello, president of the Whittier Home, "revisit the John Greenleaf Whittier homestead and listen to the words of an American poet whose humanitarianism and great popular appeal established him as an important 19th-century figure."

Former U.S. poet laureate Robert Pinsky calls poetry "an art of the human mouth and ear and brain" in which "the medium is the reader's breath." And that love of poetry as an oral form lies at the heart of this program.

Local Whittier aficionados Rhina P. Espaillat has chosen to read "First Day Thoughts" and "Trust" Chris Bryant, "A Summer Pilgrimage"; Bill Plante ""The Hunting of Men"; Skye Wentworth, "The Captain's Well" and Cynthia Costello will sing one of Whittier's hymns.

Other readers are Harris Gardener, founder of the poetry organization Tapestry of Voices from Boston will read a portion of "Hampton Beach" and one original poem; Lainie Senchal, "Tents on the Beach" and two of her own poems, Joanna Nealon, a portion from "Summer by the Lakeside" and two of her own poems and Walter Howard, a favorite amongst the Cambridge/Boston crowd who will read two original poems and will sing his Whittier selection.

"We're proud to annouce that Rhina P. Espaillat, Alfred Nicol, Lainie Senechal, and Harris Gardner read in the Massachusetts State Poetry Festival this past May," Costello says. "Rhina P. Espaillat, Alfred Nicol, Lainie Senechal, Harris Gardner, Joanna Nealon, and Walter Howard read in the 13th annual Boston National Poetry Month Festival this past April."

An informal reception will follow the readings and light refreshments will be served. The Tapestry of Voices reading, free and open to the public, will take place in the garden at the Whittier Home. In case of inclement weather, the program will be held in the Whittier Home's meeting room. For information, call Harris Gardner, (617) 306-9484 or the Whittier Home at (978) 388-1337.

About the Whittier Home

The mission of the Whittier Home Association is to act as steward for the preservation of the collections, structures and grounds of this John Greenleaf Whittier Home. As a nonprofit, educational organization, it strives to engage diverse audiences in the life-story of Whittier in his roles as a Quaker, writer, legislator and abolitionist. Open May through October, Saturdays, 10:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and by special appointment: (978) 465-5694. Visit our website for more information, www.whittierhome.org

Q. Dr. Bob, do I qualify for free diabetic shoes if I have poor circulation?
~ Mary, Stoneham

B. Ask your doctor whether your foot pressure would be distributed more effectively with a customized approach to shoes and insoles. It's important that your feet don't develop calluses -- because poor circulation puts you at risk for slow recovery from wounds.

Scarlett Salerno receives Merit Scholarship at SUNY Oswego

OSWEGO, NY - SUNY Oswego has awarded a $3,000 Merit Scholarship to Scarlett Salerno of Wilmington. The award recognizes past academic achievement and potential for success.

Salerno has reserved a place in the incoming freshman class for the fall semester. She is scheduled to begin classes Aug. 26.

SUNY Oswego honored more than 600 incoming students with merit scholarships. Outstanding first-year students are offered $18,800 Presidential Scholarships ($4,700 a year for up to four years), $6,000 Deans' Scholarships ($1,500 a year for up to four years) or Merit Scholarships ($750 a year for up to four years).

The awards are part of about $4 million in merit scholarship money offered at SUNY Oswego. These funds are in addition to the more than $80 million in need-based grants, loans, work-study and scholarship awards that SUNY Oswego students receive annually.

Admission to SUNY Oswego is competitive. U.S. News Media Group counts SUNY Oswego among the top public regional universities in the North for 2013, and the Princeton Review includes Oswego in its 2013 college guidebook "The Best Northeastern Colleges;" as well as its 2013 list of "best value" colleges and universities nationally.

A 152-year-old comprehensive college in the State University of New York system, Oswego enrolls about 8,000 students in its College of Liberal Arts and Sciences; School of Business; School of Communication, Media and the Arts; and School of Education.

Getting an international education...in Aruba

By Christine Kenney
Crier Correspondent

TEWKSBURY / ARUBA - Tewksbury Memorial High School student Taylor Salvaggio, 15, had quite the summer getaway. From July 20 through July 25, Salvaggio joined her grandparents, Peter and Georgina Rodrigues, on a business trip to Aruba. While the family enjoyed the beautiful beaches and scenic island terrain, Salvaggio's trip wasn't just about relaxing by the ocean. The soon-to-be sophomore met Arthur Dowers, minister of Justice and Education in Aruba, and attended a meeting with Gino Goeloe, national director of the White and Yellow Cross Foundation of Aruba, a healthcare organization.

Salvaggio was invited along by her grandparents, owners of Be Safer at Home, a company headquartered out of Woburn, Mass., that supplies personal emergency response devices for the elderly.

TMHS student Taylor Salvaggio was interviewed in Aruba for a televised advertisement by the Department of Tourism at the site of the Alto Vista Chapel in the Town of Noord. The Alto Vista Chapel was stated to be the location where conversion of Aruban Indians to Christianity started and the religious history of Aruba began.

How did you spend your summer vacation?

TMHS student Taylor Salvaggio traveled with her grandparents to Aruba on a business trip where she met Arthur Dowers, Minister of Justice and Education, at his Parliament Office in Oranjestad. In this photo, Minister Dowers officially welcomed Taylor Salvaggio to Aruba.

According to Peter, he expects Salvaggio, who currently works at the company part time, to take over the company one day. The Rodrigues' had visited Aruba several times before due to plans to expand their products to the island, and Paul thought Salvaggio would benefit from the learning experience.

"She had never been out of the country before. This was her first trip outside of the United States," Peter said.

Salvaggio met Dowers because the Aruban government is looking to elevate the level of healthcare provided in the country, said Peter. Because Be Safer at Home is likely to open business there, Dowers was interested in meeting with the owners, and Peter thought it would be great to expose Salvaggio to a different type of culture. Dowers officially welcomed Salvaggio to the country.

"It was flattering and humbling to be welcomed to Aruba by a Minister of their Parliament," Salvaggio said.

She met with Goeloe to learn more about Aruban healthcare.

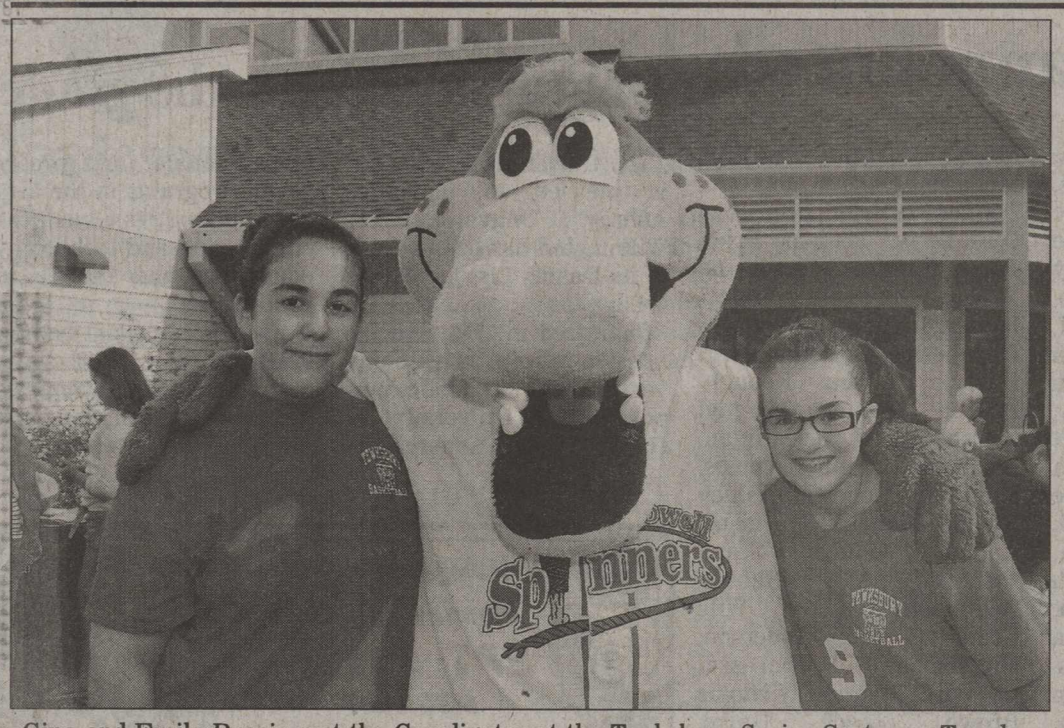
"While attending these meetings, it quickly became quite obvious to me that [the Aruban government officials] are trying to improve the healthcare in their country," Salvaggio said. "They hope to do this through new technology and delivery of services to provide a better healthcare system for their people. They are building homes for the elderly and disabled."

In addition to being exposed to the governmental culture, Peter also wanted to show Salvaggio some of the beauty Aruba has to offer. Her grandparents brought her to of the Alto Vista Chapel in the town of Noord. The historic Catholic chapel is also known as "Pilgrims Church" and is on the hills above the north shore of the sea, about 16 miles north of the coast of Venezuela.

While there, Salvaggio and her family were asked to be interviewed for a televised advertisement for the Department of Tourism. But Peter's real purpose for showing Salvaggio the chapel was personal: he and Georgina plan to renew their vows there some day.

Salvaggio is grateful to her grandparents for bringing her along for the trip, and is hopeful to someday return. However, she does note that there were cultural differences that took her by surprise.

"What I was very surprised at was their proper dress culture. My Grandmother and I could not enter Parliament with open-toed shoes! We learned of this the night before our meeting, and had to go find a shoe store that was open on Sunday night; luckily we did!"



Gina and Emily Puccia met the Canaligator at the Tewksbury Senior Center on Tuesday evening during Tewksbury's National Night Out event.

The Golden Rule has always guided the owners and staff at Tewksbury Funeral Home. Caring for and guiding the family of a loved one who has passed is the most important part of our service.
A family of service minded people intent on helping the community in many ways, the Deputat family has helped charter and is a member of several civic organizations in Tewksbury.
When one visits the funeral home one is steeped in the town's history. The building was built over a century ago and has been in the family well over half that time. Lovingly restored and improved by hand by Walter Deputat, the facility is designed to accommodate large and small gatherings, all in the comfort of our up-to-date building.
We invite families to contact us in time of need or for preplanning. We are dedicated to providing the very best facilities, a full range of merchandise, and the finest funeral services at a reasonable cost.
We are committed to serving Tewksbury and the surrounding towns with compassionate services at a cost that only a family owned provider can offer.
Our goal is to not only to meet, but to exceed, our client expectations.

Town Crier Trip Report

Mashantucket Pequot Museum and Research Center

By Paige Impink
Special to the Crier

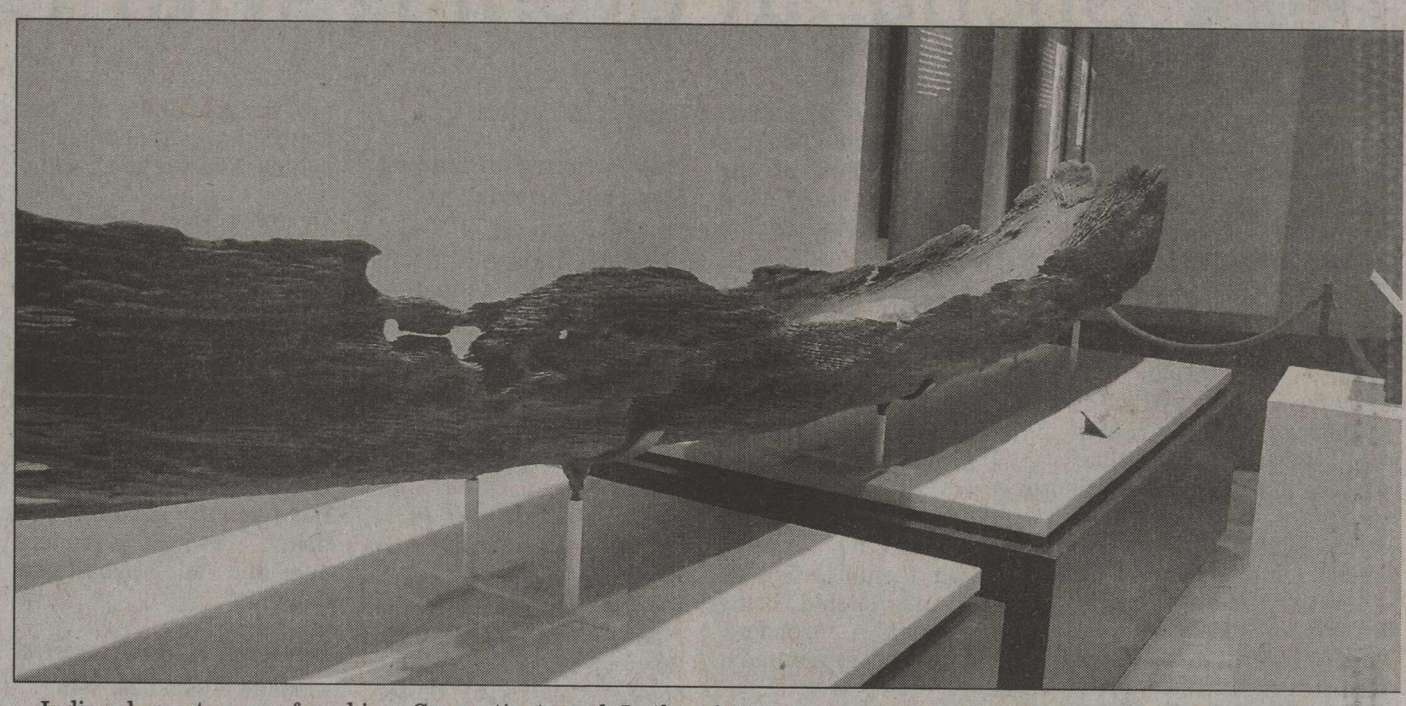
The reservation of the Mashantucket Pequot Indians in Connecticut is probably best known as the site of the popular Foxwoods Resort and Casino. What is lesser known, at least in our area, is that the reservation is also home to the state of the art Mashantucket Pequot Museum and Research Center.

A Smithsonian Affiliate, the Pequot Museum covers over 85,000 square feet of space above and below ground. The building offers an observation tower where visitors can look out over 1,600 acres of reservation land and community. The features of the museum, focused on the Mohegan and Pequot Native American culture and story, are transferable to other Native American experiences in the United States. While the story could be told in a less than pleasant light, this museum seeks to educate, enlighten, and highlight the triumphs of its culture, while sensitizing visitors to their own vulnerabilities, no matter where they live or which culture they are from.

Upon entry, visitors look immediately to the sky in the soaring Gathering Space. On the day we visited, the area was transformed for a live wolf presentation. Bleacher seating and informative speakers gave everyone a chance to see the wolves and learn more about their evolution. Several galleries, housed underground, transport the visitor though the ice age, ancient caribou hunts, early agriculture, and more. Touch screens and life-sized dioramas put you right in the action.

Not to be missed is the 22,000 square foot Pequot Village. A self-paced audio tour is easy for adults and children to work their way through the village, learning about daily life, traditions, social structures and threats that early European settlers posed to these indigenous Connecticut people. Interpretive galleries provide texture to the exhibit, including an ancient dugout canoe found in a Connecticut pond, long forgotten by its tribe.

Additional exhibits include a revolving art gallery, photo exhibits, and an interactive view of life off the reservation. The Pequots were forced to leave their land in search of employment early in the last century, and visitors learn how they regained their land and re-established their Tribal Nation in 1983. The museum makes for a fantastic day trip. Plan for at least three hours to visit the whole facility. A café is on site or you can bring your own picnic. www.pequotmuseum.org



Indian dug out canoe, found in a Connecticut pond. In the winter, canoes would be submerged using large rocks so they would not dry out and crack. In the spring, the Pequots would dive down and retrieve the canoes to use in the next season. Canoes were often made of chestnut and pine.

Defending Jacob - Sept 6

William Landay, author of the bestselling book Defending Jacob will be the featured author at an "After Hours @ the Library" event on Friday, September 6 at 7 pm. Defending Jacob is a powerful legal thriller centering on an assistant district attorney in an affluent Massachusetts suburb whose 14 year old son is accused of murder. The book depicts the courtroom drama and how the family's life is completely turned upside down. Landay is also the author of The Strangler, a Los Angeles Times Favorite Crime Book of the Year, and Mission Flats, winner of the Creasey Memorial Dagger Award for Best First Crime Novel and a Barry Award nominee. Landay, a former district attorney, who holds degrees from Yale and Boston College Law School, lives in Boston, where he is at work on his next novel of suspense. Please register for this event and arrive by 6:45 pm. Refreshments and book signing will follow the author's presentation.

Event Registration

Registration begins 30 days prior to the event. Please register online using our Calendar of Events at www.wilmlibrary.org or by calling (978) 694-2099 (for Adult) or (978) 694-2098 (for Children/Teen). Please note events that require registration are marked (RR).

Jet Setting 101: You can see the world on a budget (RR)

Tuesday, August 20, 7pm

Do you day dream about taking a hiatus from your everyday life to reconnect with yourself through exploration and travel? Do you have a list of countries you long to see and no idea how to make your travel dreams a reality? Whether solo or as a group there is a trip that is just right for you! Marcy Yeager, coordinator of International Studies at Northern Essex Community College and adventure travel junkie, will share her own travel triumphs and woes and help make international travel an economic reality.

Climbing Mt. Everest (RR)

Tuesday, August 27, 7pm

Craig John, a professional mountain guide since 1987, will recount his inspiring story of courage and determination in climbing Mt. Everest. In addition, the multimedia presentation features other climbs in preparation of summiting the world's tallest mountain.

Shredding Truck

Saturday, September 7, 10am-1pm (in lower Wildwood lot behind library)

It is time to clean out those files and shoe boxes. Bring your dated bank statements, old tax returns, and don't forget the old love letters to be shredded on site. The shredding service is free to the public. Paper clips and staples do not have to be removed.

Monet's Mirror: How to Pastel Paint Monet's Water Lilies

Sat., Sept. 7, 1pm-3pm (RR) (limit 30)

Greg Maichack, a Museum of Fine Arts (MFA) pastel demonstrator, offers a new workshop for beginners to advanced. Maichack shares his water garden photos he took on site at Monet's home studio in Giverny, France, and will paint with you from the same imagery that Monet used. Expressive and fun, you will quickly learn how easy and direct pastel painting is from Maichack's long experience teaching pastel techniques. As always, all will keep their pastel paintings and use hundreds of his professional-grade pastels, paper, and materials.

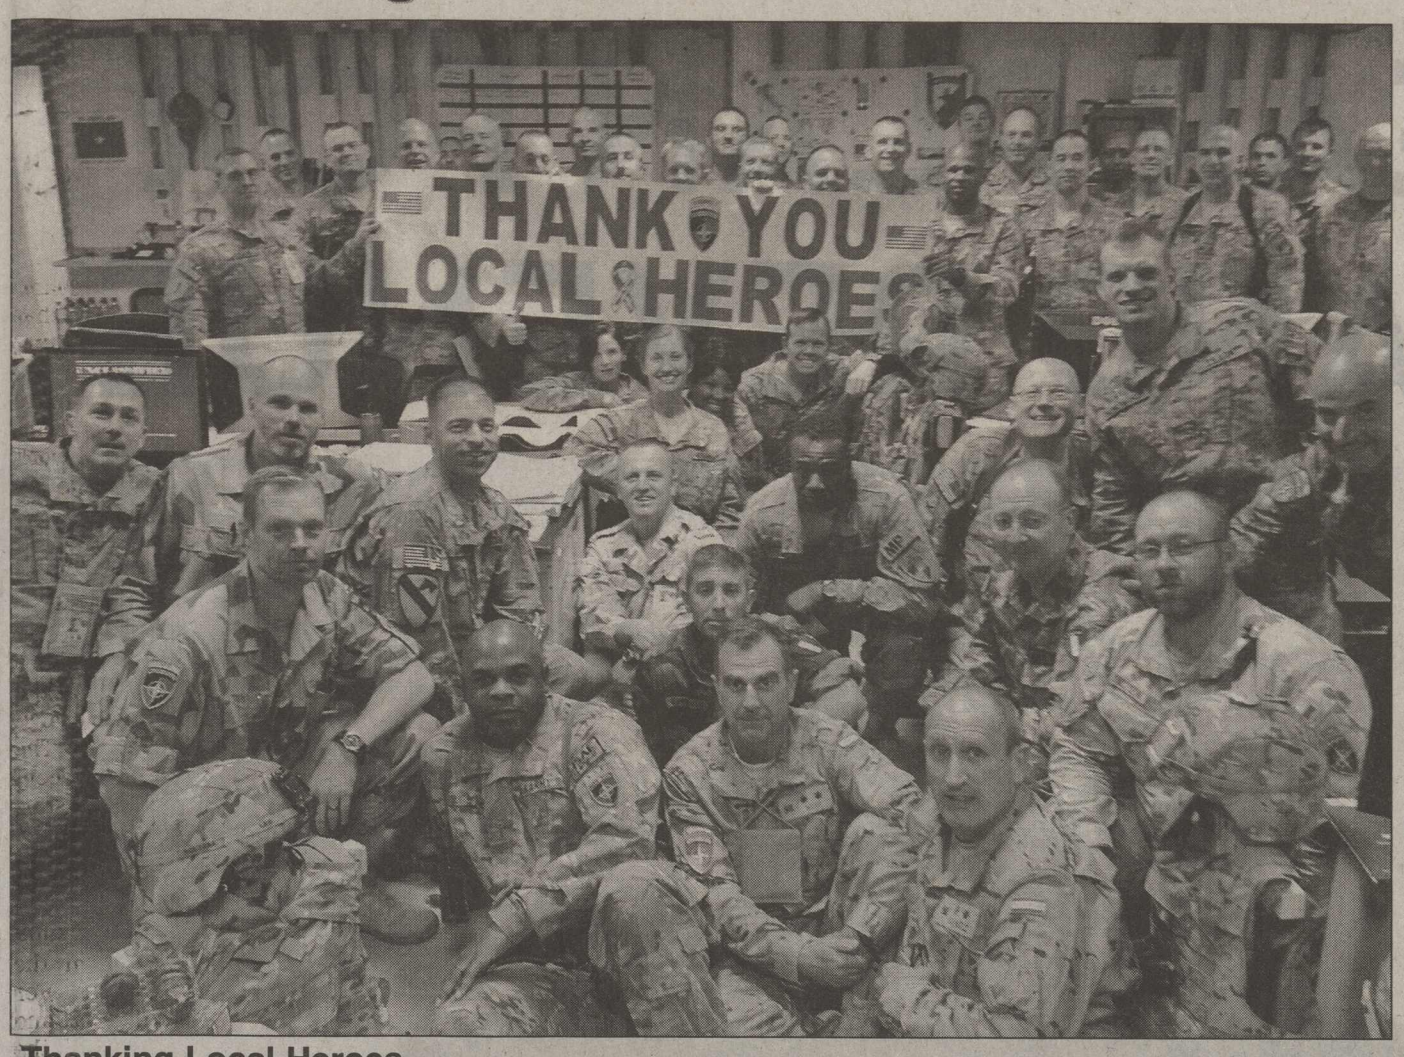
Returning Vets - You are not alone



Thanking Local Heroes

old. "When we're talking about 'vets' we're talking about the kids I coached at Pop Warner (Wilmington youth football.) Kids I knew when they were 7 or 8-years-old."

Today, these young vets are returning home from active duty, often struggling with issues like Post-traumatic Street Disorder (PTSD) and often struggling in private. "Reintegration into civilian life can be difficult enough on its own," said Cimaglia, a Desert Storm Veteran.

In the New York Times article "Baffling Rise in Suicides Plagues the U.S. Military", "Even with the withdrawal from Iraq and the pullback in Afghanistan, the rate of suicide within the military has continued to rise significantly faster than within the general population, where it is also rising."

According to the article, which chronicles the struggles of military veterans, research suggests a "complex web of factors" may contribute to suicide. Factors that include addictions, failed relationships, financial struggles, and exposure to combat, which exacerbates pre-existing conditions like depression or creates new conditions such as PTSD.

In many instances, young vets are embarrassed to reach out for help. Afraid of being labeled "crazy" these soldiers try to internalize the trauma they've encountered until they find themselves in crises and at the breaking point.

"It takes the strength and courage of a warrior to ask for help," Cimaglia quotes his favorite tag line from the Edith Nourse Rogers Memorial Veterans Hospital, also known as the Bedford VA, serving veterans, active duty service members, and their families.

"If you need help, the Bedford VA is only 15 minutes away. If you don't have a ride, I'm willing to drive you there," said Jim Williams, Veterans Service Officer for the town of Tewksbury. "I find the Bedford VA is a very open door in my opinion. The problem is there are more veterans who either don't want the help or who want to stay to themselves. They are trying to get their feet back on the ground and get in touch with where they were - or where they think they were before. They think they can do it on their own."

Williams aims to get veterans involved on a local level. "Even if it's their local VFW (Veterans of Foreign Wars), DAV (Disabled American Veterans), American Legion, or coming out for Veterans or Memorial Day so they are with others who share the same experiences."

Williams, a Vietnam Vet, served in the U.S. Army. "If you have a problem let's sit and talk about it," he says. "I told one vet, 'Even if you never go to a meeting, you can read the (VFW or DAV) magazines and see what others have gone through to get where they are now. Maybe it will lead you in the same path.'"

"As long as they reach out for help, that's what the local vet agents are for," Cimaglia said. His Wilmington office, located at 141 Shawsheen Street, holds a group meeting every Thursday night, which is open to all veterans. Participants do not have to be diagnosed with PTSD to attend. "There's camaraderie in sharing stories. It's local kids getting together in an informal setting." Vets attending his group meetings range from 23-years-old and up. "Sometimes we have Vietnam Vets that stop by and that's pretty neat," he said. The next meeting is Thursday, August 15th, at 6:30 p.m.

Veterans can find various resources in the Wilmington office: how to receive the $1,000 welcome home bonus from the state or how use the GI bill to go back to school. "We also help with employment in our office," Cimaglia said. "We're one-stop shopping for veterans."

Cimaglia founded the non-profit organization Local Heroes, which sends care packages to military personnel stationed around the world. He says this is a fulfilling opportunity for returning vets. "We meet every Wednesday night at the Knights of Columbus at 7p.m. We haven't missed a week in over nine years." It is through Local Heroes that Cimaglia meets the families of deployed soldiers, so they return home knowing there's moral support. "Remember," Cimaglia says to all vets, "You are not alone. Don't be afraid to make the call."

August 24th, Local Heroes will host the 8th Annual Support the Troops Motorcycle Poker Run at the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks, 777 South Street, Tewksbury. Registration begins at 9:00 a.m. Donations are $20 per rider or $10 per passenger, which includes BBQ and T-shirt. All proceeds support Local Heroes. Teenage vandals take swipe at cars

WILMINGTON – A resident of 6 Marie Drive called police early Sunday morning to report that two vehicles belonging to the caller were vandalized – allegedly by a small gang of teenagers in a Volvo.

According to Lt. Daniel Murray, a group of seven to eight teenagers were seen in and around a Volvo SE 850, a five-passenger sedan, allegedly damaged a Hyundai Elantra and a Plymouth Breeze parked in the driveway.

Murray stated that the case remains under investigation, but that "at this point, we are attempting to contact all involved parties."

No charges are pending at this time.

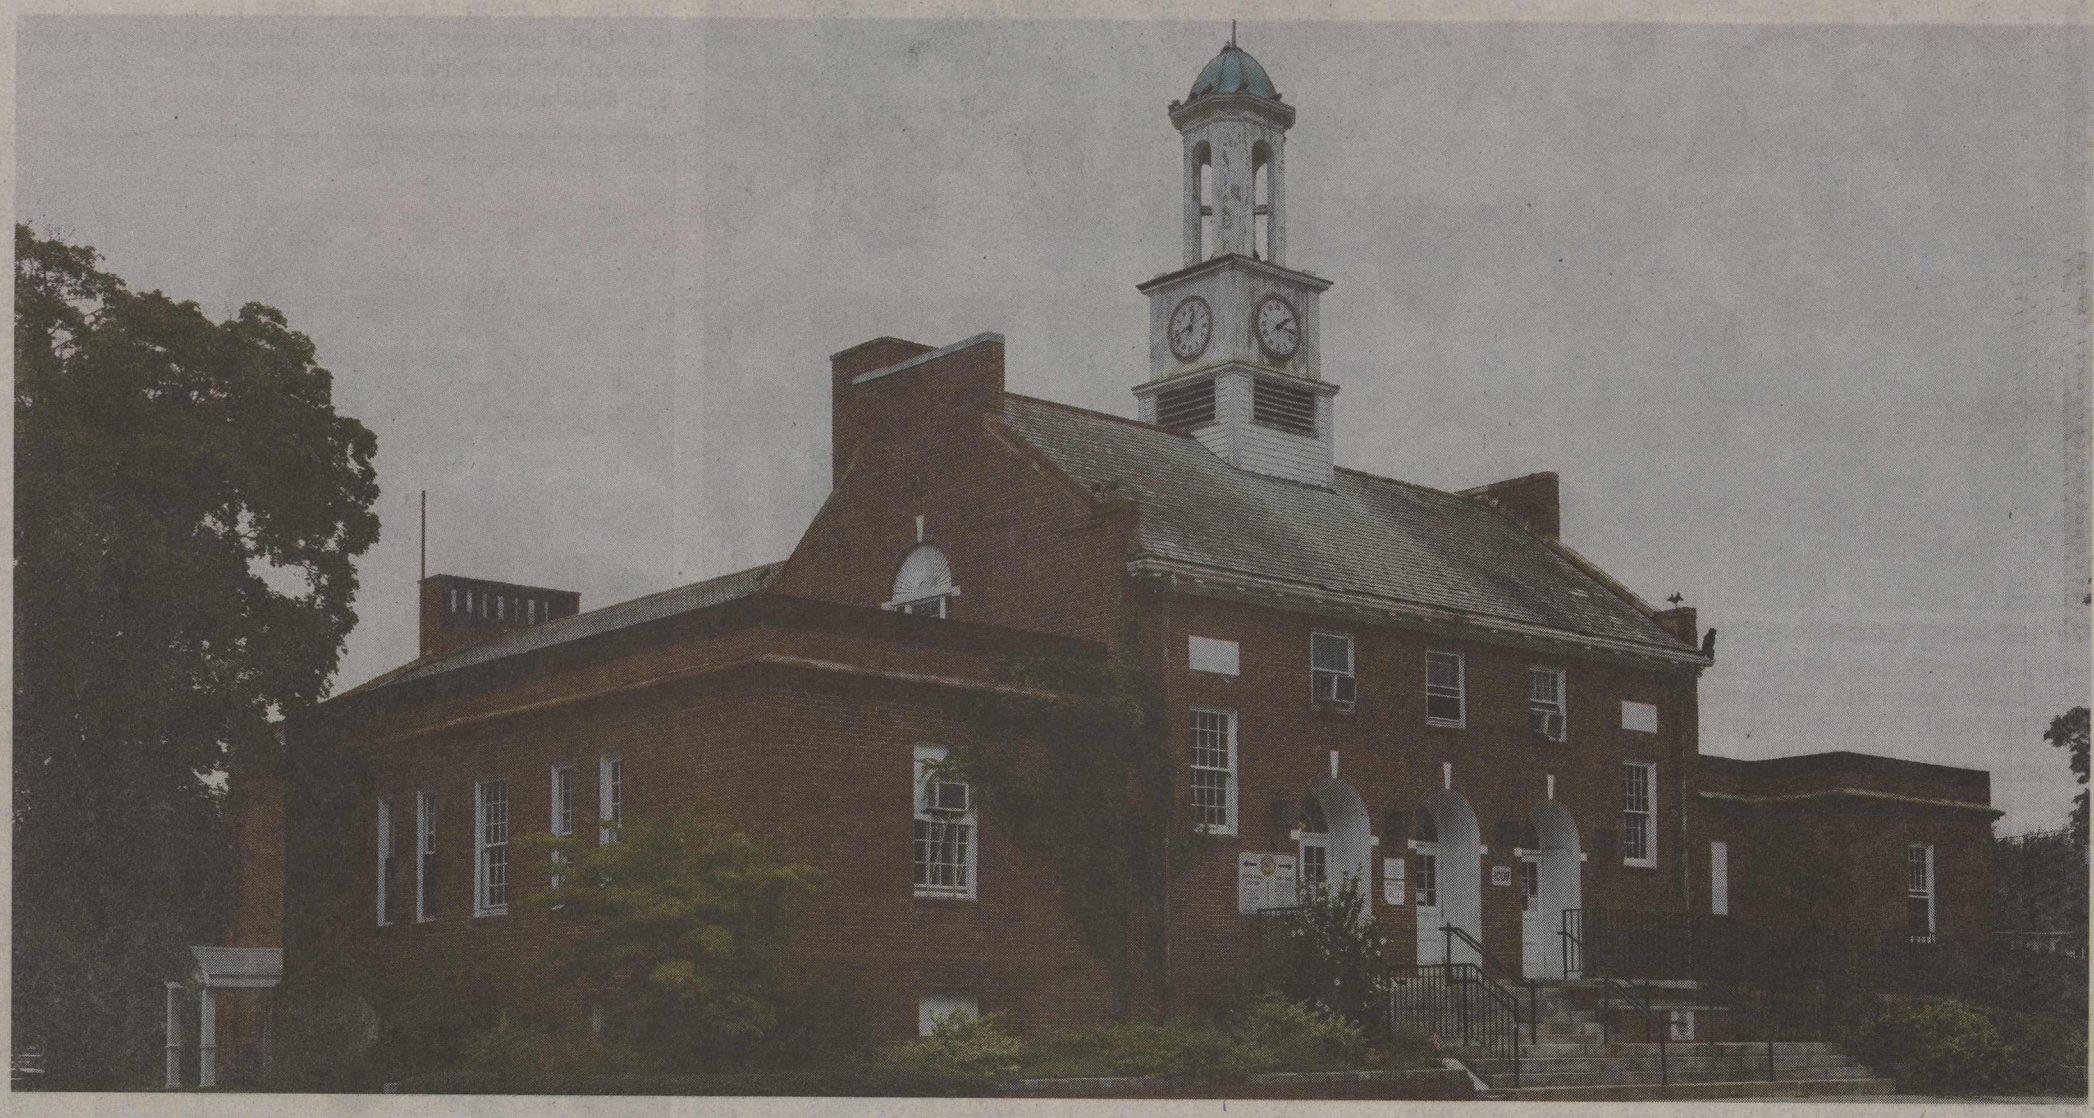
A CLEAR PLAN FOR JOBS AND REVENUE



PENN NATIONAL GAMING'S PROPOSED FACILITY WILL BRING SIGNIFICANT BENEFITS TO TEWKSBURY

Penn National Gaming's plan for Tewksbury envisions successful partnerships with the community and will generate real economic benefits.

Our proposed location at 300 Ames Pond Drive near the intersection of I-495 and Route 133 will provide an infusion of jobs, revenues and economic growth into the town.

Our unanimously approved Host Community Agreement with the Town Selectmen includes:

- ✓ Guaranteed $200+ million investment in Tewksbury
- ✓ 1,000 direct and indirect jobs during the construction period
- ✓ 500 permanent jobs
- ✓ Estimated annual payments to Tewksbury exceeding $4 million
- ✓ Annual contributions to Tewksbury non-profit organizations
- ✓ Funding necessary traffic and infrastructure improvements near the facility

Penn National will work side-by-side with Tewksbury residents, workers, businesses and leaders to ensure a successful integration within existing infrastructure.

"Commitment made and commitment kept is what makes Penn National who they are."

Brown and friends peddle 170 miles in PMC

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

For Gary Brown there really was little choice but to get involved. A little over three years ago, a seven year old member of the youth hockey team that Brown was coaching lost his mother to cancer, the Tewksbury resident took action, wanting to help in any way he could.

The best way to help he thought, was to try and do whatever he could in the hopes that no family ever had to face what that little boy and his family had to face. He resolved at that time to take part in his first Pan-Mass Challenge, the annual event that has become the largest single event charity fund raiser in the entire country, with 100 % of its proceeds going to the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

"His mother was 41 years old and she was a non-smoker and she passed away from cancer," Brown recalled. "And I remember just seeing that little boy and he was just such a lost soul that I wanted to do whatever I could to help so another family wouldn't have to go through that."

Of course, nobody knows when or if we will ever find a cure for cancer, but with people like Brown trying to help the cause there is reason for optimism.

Brown, who this past weekend completed his third PMC, tackling the 170 mile two day route from Wellesley to Provincetown, has made a commitment to not only to the physical training required to complete the daunting course, but also to reach his fund raising goal for the event and he has been very successful on both counts.

Brown and his teammates on the Kwik Spinners Team raised over $32,000 in their first two years participating in the PMC, and this year the group which has now become a foursome raised over $20,000 for the fight against cancer.

The Kwik Spinners team is comprised of Brown, Billy D'Orlando, Ben Cutone and Tommy Keane. Brown and Cutone are both in their third year of competing in the PMC, while D'Orlando is in his second year and Keane joined the group this year for the first time.

"We've got four of us right now and I think the group could be growing," Brown said. "We have had some others express interest in joining us and it would be great to see our team get even bigger."

Each year Brown has competed in the PMC he has done so in recognition of someone close to him who has battled against cancer. In 2011, it was the little boy's mom that started his quest to compete, while last year he and his teammates rode in honor of D'Orlando's wife who was battling breast cancer.

This year was an even more personal crusade for Brown who rode in honor of honor his brother Kurt and his cousin Russ Brown Jr. Kurt was diagnosed recently with a rare form of Gastrointestinal Stromal Tumor (GIST) in his esophagus, while 60 year old Russ

Wilmington's legendary biker

Rooney rides for his 31st time

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Pan-Mass Challenge has grown into the most successful charity event in the entire country, last year raising over 37 million dollars thanks to the efforts of over 5,500 participants. This year's event, the 34th Annual PMC was expected to raise roughly the same amount of money, with 100 percent of the funds going to cancer research at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

But it was not always this way. Back when the event started, if you could even call it an event at the time, it featured event founder Billy Starr and three dozen friends back in 1980. The group of friends rode across the state to raise money for cancer research in memory of Starr's mother, whom he had lost to cancer six years earlier.

Not long after its inception, Wilmington resident Mickey Rooney decided to join the fight along with Starr and the still relatively small group. In 1983 Rooney, at that time 45 years old, joined approximately 300 other riders on the ride and he has never looked back.

Now 75 years old and showing no signs of turning back, Rooney this past weekend participated in his 31st PMC,

Continuing her ice hockey career at Salem State

Katherine MacDougall's commitment to Salem State University was a decision she knew would shape more than just her college career, but the foundation for her next forty years. Her determination to play ice hockey at the collegiate level led to her decision to join NCSA Athletic Recruiting, an exclusive recruiting network that provides student athletes with the opportunity and technology to be proactive in their recruiting process. Not only did Katherine have the tools she needed for the recruiting process, NCSA also educated her on the steps she needed to take to achieve her goal.

Katherine has demonstrated the true meaning of "student-athlete." Earning a 3.69 GPA, Katherine is a member of SADD, Drama Club, and has been named to the honor roll. She plans to major in nursing at the university located in Salem, Massachusetts.

As a three-year varsity athlete, Katherine was named to Honorable Mention All-Conference, and served as assistant captain for two

Myeloid Leukemia and has been through three rounds of chemotherapy, one round of radiation and a bone marrow transplant as he has battled the disease.

Brown's story of how he has been touched by cancer is not uncommon to most people and certainly not uncommon at all to the riders in the PMC.

"I think everybody has a story," Brown said. "In my case I just wanted to do something to help out. I would love it if we could somehow find a cure so we could stop this from happening to another family."

Brown and D'Orlando helped their fund raising cause recently with an event at the Merrimack Valley Pavilion (MVP) on Main Street in Tewksbury. Brown and D'Orlando are co-owners of MVP and last Sunday they held a fund raising event at the fun facility.

While eager customers participated in laser tag and miniature golf and enjoyed ice cream cones, 20 % of all proceeds from the day went to the Kwik Spinners Team, raising nearly $1,000 on the day.

"It was a great day and a lot of fun," Brown said. "It was something we put together at the last minute so next year we are hoping to plan it even better and make it an even bigger event."

As for the race itself Brown could not have chosen a much bigger event, choosing to compete in the 170 mile ride from Wellesley to Provincetown.

"The second day is definitely more grueling," Brown said. "It is uphill almost all the way. You start by going over the Bourne Bridge and after that it is just a bunch of hills. But you get a day of rest on Monday and you feel better."

Helping Brown along the challenging route is the huge throng of supporters all along the route, many of them expressing their gratitude for the participation of Brown and the other riders.

"There are a ton of families out there all along the route. A lot of the homeowners along the route come out to cheer you on," Brown said. "Then there are pictures of kids at the Dana Farber all along the route. It is very touching. This is a great event that raises a lot of money for a great cause."

It is a great event that Brown and his Kwik Spinners teammates will definitely be back for again next year.

"We're coming back," Brown said. "100 percent of the money we raise goes right to Dana-Farber so it is definitely something you want to be a part of. That is why we do this. It is not about us. It is about helping in any way we can."

HUB Insurance raises another $34,000 for local charities

WILMINGTON - On Monday, June 10, HUB International New England (a Wilmington-based insurance agency) held it's 16th annual HUB International New England Charity golf tournament at the Andover Country Club. The charities for this year were Perkins School and Horizons for Homeless Children. Each organization received a check for $17,000. Over $300,000 has been raised since the inception of this tournament.

"There has been a substantial reduction in federal funding for nonprofit and related organizations, so our ability to assist our long time customers is especially important," said HUB New England Chief Sales Officer, Mike Chapman. "We are proud to work with such outstanding organizations!"

Participants included HUB employees, reps of the charity, and staff of our key insurance carrier partners. Winners this year were: 1st place - Jared Barber, Paul Cataldo, Josh Gibbons, Laura Nichols (from C N A)

2nd & 3rd place TIE - Daniel Boermeester, Mark Olson, Jim Palleschi, Dave Whitlock (from Vermont Mutual & HUB). . . Dan Bridge, Ryan Molloy, Don Rung (from Travelers and HUB)

Longest Drive Women - Sue Gould (MAPFRE)

Closest to the Pin (4' 7") - Don Rung (Vermont Mutual)

Military Appreciation Day August 17

At Porter and Chester Institute

WOBURN - Porter and Chester Institute (PCI) of Woburn is hosting it's 2nd Annual Military Appreciation Day on Saturday, August 17, 2013 from 12 pm-5 pm.

PCI celebrated their 1st Annual Military Appreciation Day last year on September 22, 2012 at each of nine Connecticut and Massachusetts campuses where more than 1,000 people attended.

"We were able to raise $2,250 for military charities and $1,250 for the Massachusetts Military Heroes Fund," said Eddie Bonnell, Campus Director at the Woburn facility in a statement. "There were also state and local politicians in attendance, along with local and state wide media coverage."

PCI offers a wide variety of career training choices in the fields of automotive, computers, skilled trades and healthcare. All PCI programs offer an integrated training environment that blends theory and hands-on application to best train our students in the technical and professional skills essential for their chosen career.

PCI has been preparing students for successful technical careers for more than 65 years. We are a fully accredited postsecondary institution, providing hands-on education to more than 3,000 students each year at nine southern New England campus locations.

riding the 111 mile route from Sturbridge to Bourne to do his part for this great event.

After all these years, and another successful ride in the PMC, Rooney was able to reflect on that first ride so many years ago.

"Back when I started there were just four or five of us younger guys, and we were reading the sports page and we saw this event and we just decided to get involved and take a bike ride," Rooney said. "That's how it all started. There were maybe 300 riders in the whole thing but we really enjoyed it. A lot of us stayed together for a long time. Unfortunately Mother Nature took some of us, but a lot of us just stayed with it."

After so many years participating in the event, Rooney has become a regular both every year at the PMC as well as with frequent trips to visit Starr in his office in Needham. While the event organizers such as Starr certainly look forward to seeing Rooney every year, he also looks forward to returning to see regular riders such as himself at the starting line.

"Everybody gets to know each other over the years and it is great to see everyone every year," Rooney said. "We are all kind of doing the same thing, so we get to know each other."

Perhaps the people he knows best is the group he has ridden with during the past several years, the Patriots Platelet Pedalers, which includes several other rides from Wilmington as well.

Rooney says that having such a great group to train with makes it easier to prepare for the event.

"It's kind of the same group almost every year which is nice," Rooney said. "We get together beforehand to get ready for it, which helps all of us."

Of course Rooney does plenty of training on his own as well, heading out for afternoon bike rides to prepare himself for the grueling ride ahead. At 75 years old, with 31 years of riding experience behind him. Rooney has certainly developed a training routine for himself, but he insists that there is no real secret to getting ready for the event.

"It's a pretty simple operation really," Rooney said. "Just get on your bike every time you have the opportunity. People like me who are older have a little more time to ride during the day so it gives me an opportunity to train."

The training certainly seemed to have paid off for Rooney once again this year as he got on his bike at about 5:00 a.m. on Sturbridge and finished up at Mass Maritime at about 4:00 p.m. While the ride was very challenging, Rooney's great conditioning paid off for him.

"It went very well this year," Rooney said. "It is a long ride, and it seems like there is nothing but hills on this route, but I made it through and I thought it went very well."

Another big part of the event every year for Rooney and all of the participants is the fund raising that goes along with it. Rooney did not want to speculate on just how much money he has raised for cancer research over his 31 years of participation, but his year he raised over $11,000 thanks to some very generous donations.

"I am not sure how much we have raided over the years, but I wish I had 10 percent of it," Rooney joked. "I am so fortunate that so many people keep giving money year after year. And the great part about the Pan Mass Challenge is that 100 percent of the money we raise goes to Dan-Farber. It is such a well run organization. They deserve a lot of credit for what they do."

And Rooney knows that he would not be nearly as successful in his fund raising without the generosity of so many Wilmington residents over the years.

"I would like to personally thank all of the Wilmington residents, including bike riders, volunteers and people who have donated," Rooney said. "It is a real nice representative of all the people in Wilmington. It's been incredible the way so many people have helped out."

2014 Softball Try Outs

The New England Storm Jr. Olympic Softball program is excited to announce their upcoming August try outs for the 2014 season!

The Storm, entering their 14th season, is a competitive, travel softball organization consisting of 7 teams with players from nearly 50 cities and towns, and 3 states.

They offer age groups U10, 12, 14, 16, & 18.

The Storm practices at Tufts University during the winter months, under the consultation of the NCAA Division III National Softball Champions Tufts University Head Coach Cheryl Milligan.

During the summer months, the Storm practices and plays in weekend tournaments primarily in the New England area.

For information, and any questions, please email the director, John Gambale, at jgambale.nestorm@aol.com. Also, please feel free to visit their website at www.newenglandstorm.org.

Conway Tournament Championship

Tewksbury Nationals battle past Billerica

By Brendan Foley
Sports Correspondent

TEWKSBURY - On July 31, the Tewksbury 12-year-old-National Baseball team battled it out with the visiting Billerica team at Poulin Field to decide who would walk away as the winner of this year's Conway Tournament. The game was an intense back and forth throughout its duration, with neither team managing to make any damage on the scoreboard until the final innings. Despite the challenges throughout the game, Tewksbury managed to come from behind to claim and then maintain the lead. The final score was 4-3, with Tewksbury victorious.

While the Tewksbury bats took a while to warm up, the defensive effort was led by pitcher Cameron Legvold. He did an admirable job holding the mound, firing in strikes and putting the ball in the perfect place for the fielders to make every necessary play.

On the offensive end, Tewksbury's first hit came courtesy of Shane Darrigo's single in the top of the second inning. Riley Frost followed with another single, but no runs were produced.

Billerica launched their own offensive effort in the bottom of the third, battering Legvold with a series of singles. But strong Tewksbury defense put the clamp down before any runs could be scored.

The stalemate broke in the bottom of the fifth. Billerica took the lead, 1-0. Travis McMurdo went in as a relief pitcher and ended the inning before any more damage could be accrued.

With time running out, Tewksbury went all-out in the top of the sixth, battering at Billerica's defense. Darrigo snared the first hit of the inning with a single. He stole his way to second, putting him in a prime position to swing the momentum of the game. All that was needed was the proper push, and the game would be tied.

He would not have long to wait. Frost followed up with a single, and then made a play for second. While the Billerica infield chased Frost around the baseline, Darrigo dashed across home plate. The Tewksbury dugout exploded with excitement.

From there, Tewksbury was all but unstoppable.

Frost stole his way to third and capitalized on his position to score, giving Tewksbury the lead, 2-1. Matthew Perron and Colby Wilson reached base on walks and were then driven home by a massive double off the bat of Dominic Jolly. By inning's end, the score now stood at 4-1.

Billerica had no intention of going down so easily. In the bottom of the sixth, with only one out and the bases loaded, a Billerica single seemed to spell doom for Tewksbury's lead. But smart defense by Tewksbury and quick action by catcher, Jolly, stopped the run from scoring.

A Billerica double drove in two runs, leaving Tewksbury only one run ahead. Tensions were high as McMurdo faced the final Billerica batter. When the batter connected, it seemed like his line drive was about to cut Tewksbury's lead out from under them. But Tewksbury second baseman Josh Papa threw himself in front of the ball, stopping its trajectory against his chest. Papa fielded the ball to first and Tewksbury's victory was secure.

Tewksbury coach Wayne Freitag was overflowing with pride for his team. He had been working with this group of athletes for three years. The Conway Tournament Championship was, win or lose, the team's swan song at Poulin Field as a team. Ending on a note of victory was the best that anyone could have hoped for. While the early innings had him nervous, Freitag was never in doubt that the team had the skill to pull off a victory.

"They have a way to turn it on," Freitag said.

As Freitag explained it, the late-game surge was a by-product of the smart, adaptive brand of baseball that the team practices.

"A couple of the kids started to re-adapt when up at bat. A couple of kids who haven't been hitting the ball lately took advantage and started hitting to get us started. That was huge. And then once we got rolling, a couple of the big kids kept us going. But that's what got us started: clutch hits from guys who struggled for a little while."

Freitag could barely contain his pride and relief as he described watching Papa make the final play of the game.

"Just plain and simple, that last play by Josh Papa was something else. He ate that ball up and made the play like it was nothing."

Wilmington plays in Jimmy Fund Championship

By Brendan Foley
Sports Correspondent

Last Saturday, two Wilmington baseball teams went head to head for the championship game of the Jimmy Fund League at Weafer Park in Woburn. The two teams were comprised of a large cross-section of young Wilmington talent, many of whom played side by side during the little league season. But those bonds were put aside for the final game between the Wilmington Americans and the Wilmington Wildcats. The game would go to the Wildcats, with a final score of 13-3.

Despite their eventual victory, the Wildcats were pummeled in the first inning. The Americans launched an all-out offensive effort in the top of the first, with their first hit coming courtesy of Ritchie McNamara. The first run for the Americans was scored by Michael Fiorenza. The big bats of the Americans continued to sound throughout the top of the first, with deep hits by Pete Marino and Riley McCue. By the time the Wildcats managed three outs, the score stood at 3-0.

The Wildcats wasted no time to answer back in kind. Tristan Ciampa led off with a massive single. He was followed by Ryan Collins, who crushed a double off the outfield fence. Both Ciampa and Collins would score, placing the Wildcats within spitting distance of the lead.

When the Americans got back up to bat, they found that Wildcat pitcher Kyle Bolis had found his rhythm on the mound. He sat down all three American batters, one after the other, with three straight strike outs.

The Wildcats wasted no time in the bottom of the second. Jake Danieli led off with a single. A bunt from Jake Arsenault kept the bases moving. Both Danieli and Arsenault scored thanks to another massive hit by Ciampa. Thanks to his double, the Wildcats now held the lead, 4-3. The lead would only grow as the inning progressed.

A triple by Kyle Beatrice netted another two runs. Wildcat pitcher Bolis assisted on the offense with an RBI double. Fiorenza took over as the Americans' pitcher and, after a few initial struggles, managed to end the inning with a strike out.

The Wildcats now held a commanding lead of 10-3.

Jack is back!

WHS Alumni & Friends tips off new fundraisers for new high school

The Wildcat Athletic Alumni and Friends have done some incredible work over the years raising money to help fund various Wilmington High athletic programs, equipment and anything else the athletic department might need.

They were able to do this great work not only through their own dedication to the task, but also due to the generosity of many residents of Wilmington who have been donated to their cause.

The group will be back at it again this year and they will need more help than ever in order to help fund needed materials for the new high school.

Jack Cushing, the President of the Alumni and Friends is working diligently along with the rest of the group's members to prepare for the upcoming school year and he wants everyone to know that they will be extremely busy with plenty of fun activities this year.

"We are going to be very active this year," Cushing said. "The athletic department is going to need some things this year that they are not going to get funding for. A big part of our goal this year is to raise money for those things."

Among the items Cushing is referring to is new banners to hang in the gym of the new high school which is set to be open 2015. The department will also need some much needed new equipment.

The first big fund raiser that Cushing and the rest of the Alumni and Friends have planned is an exciting Battle of the Classes Bocce Tournament on the weekend of September 7. At least five Wilmington High alumni classes have already agreed to participate in the event and Cushing is hoping to hear from a lot more.

It is an event that Cushing had actually begun to plan back in June, but it was at around that time that he fell ill, eventually leading the 69 year old Wilmington High Athletic Hall of Famer to need quintuple bypass surgery on July 8.

"I was supposed to go in for a triple bypass, but then when I went in they ended up needing to do five," Cushing said.

Cushing is a well know figure around Wilmington for his many years of dedicated service to the community and the high school in particular, and during his recovery time, the people of Wilmington did not forget him. And Cushing will not forget them either.

"I got so many cards and letters from people and I just want to thank everybody for all of their support," Cushing said.

Cushing was cleared to resume normal activities last Thursday and he wasted little time in getting back to work to prepare for the year's activities.

Along with the Battle of the Classes, another event already on the horizon is an Alumni Weekend over the Thanksgiving holiday weekend. The event will feature numerous alumni games in what Cushing hopes will be all of the sports at Wilmington High.

"It should be a great week-

Sugrue named to Dean's List at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

TROY, NY -- Daniel Sugrue of Tewksbury has been named to the Dean's list at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute for the Spring 2013 semester. The dean's list recognizes full-time students who maintain grade-point averages of a minimum of 3.0 out of a possible 4.0 and have no grades below "C." Sugrue studies Business and Management.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, founded in 1824, is the nation's oldest technological research university. The university offers bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in engineering, the sciences, information technology, architecture, management, and the humanities and social sciences. Institute programs serve undergraduates, graduate students, and working professionals around the world. Rensselaer faculty are known for pre-eminence in research conducted in a wide range of fields, with particular emphasis in biotechnology, nanotechnology, information technology, and the media arts and technology. The Institute is well known for its success in the transfer of technology from the laboratory to the marketplace so that new discoveries and inventions benefit human life, protect the environment, and strengthen economic development.

back, but they could not get any offensive momentum going. JJ Thibert banged out a single and stole second, but was stranded there for the remainder of the inning. Not helping the Americans effort was a revitalized Wildcat defense. A high, deep hit by McNamara seemed like a sure thing until it was snagged in a difficult catch by Anthony Celata.

Both teams displayed very strong defense for the remainder of the game. With Fiorenza on the mound, the Wildcats found their offensive efforts stymied throughout the third and fourth innings. Unfortunately for the Americans, Bolis continued to fire the ball into home plate, giving them no opportunities to swing the game back into their favor.

The stalemate broke in the bottom of the fifth when the Wildcats' bats came roaring back to life. A lead-off double by Sean Devlin opened the floodgates and before long the Wildcats had accumulated another three runs, ending the game.

Wildcats head coach Paul Danieli was happy to end the season on such a successful note.

"The kids hit and we had good pitching. We didn't make too many defensive mistakes, and that kept us in the game and then they just kept on hitting," he said.

The victory is especially gratifying after the team found themselves in a large deficit at the outset of the game.

"I think they were a little loose at the start, but they settled down," said Danielli. "We had a little talk between innings. We told them they still had a whole game to go. There were five innings left and we hadn't even gotten up yet."

Indeed, despite the odds stacked against them, the Wildcats managed to put their heads down and make the drive towards victory.

Give $1 for cancer

Wilmington BURGER KING® in 14th Consecutive Year with Jimmy Fund

Wilmington – Burger King® customers can help fight cancer from July 29 through September 2 by contributing $1 to the Jimmy Fund through the A Chance for Kids & FamiliesSM program at participating BURGER KING® restaurants in six New England states and throughout Metro New York.

Local BURGER KING® restaurant participating:

BURGER KING® at 280 Lowell Street, Wilmington, Massachusetts

With each contribution, customers will receive a promotion card guaranteed to be a winner with prizes ranging from an all-inclusive trip from TNT Vacations Powered by Funjet Vacations, American Airlines miles, and theme park tickets, to prizes from BURGER KING®, Aubuchon Hardware, and Old Navy.

"The BURGER KING® family around the world is dedicated to making a difference in the communities in which we work and live," said Jim Froio, BURGER KING® franchisee and president, New England Association. "Cancer touches so many lives and A Chance for Kids & Families helps support the fine work done at Dana-Farber ridding the world of cancer. We are happy to continue our support of this program and look forward to supporting it in the future."

In the last 13 years, participating BURGER KING® restaurants have raised more than $10.9 million for cancer research and care at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. BURGER KING® restaurants in New England that will participate in the campaign include: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, Metro New York, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont.

"For the past 13 years, BURGER KING® employees and their restaurant guests have been an invaluable partner in our fight cancer," said Suzanne Fountain, director of the Jimmy Fund.

For more information about the Jimmy Fund or A Chance for Kids & Families, including official rules and an alternate method of entry, visit a participating BURGER KING® restaurant, visit JimmyFund.org, or call the Jimmy Fund at 617-582-9675.

Library Park Blues Festival to raise money for veterans

Performers include Ronnie Earl & the Broadcasters, Brian Templeton Band and 6 other bands

By GORDON VINCENT

What started as an ambitious idea will become a reality later this month as the Blues for Veterans Association will host the first annual Library Park Blues Festival in Woburn on Saturday, Aug. 24.

The festival is the brainchild of U.S. Army veteran and blues afficianado Michael Dever, who attended the King Pine Music Fest in New Hampshire last year and thought a similar type of event might work in Woburn.

"I just figured why not have a blues festival in Woburn," said Dever, a former Woburn City Council member who is also a part-time bartender at George A. Campbell American Legion Post 101 in West Woburn. "And it made sense to have it as a benefit for our local veterans. I know there are a lot of veterans in Woburn who could use some help."

Dever recruited a team of volunteers to help him plan the event, familiar names in the city including former Woburn Veterans Services Agent Joe Simas and his wife Irene, former Woburn firefighter Bill Murray and his daughter, Jennifer, who is the Asst. Veterans Services Officer in Woburn, Tom Doherty from Friends of Woburn Veterans, and Ward 3 Alderman Mark Gaffney, from the Woburn City Council.

"We went to the Mayor (Scott Galvin) and once he gave us his blessing, we started putting something together," said Dever.

Slicing through the bureaucratic red tape proved to be something of a challenge for the organizers, who finally got their special permit for the event from the Woburn City Council last month, along with a special liquor license from the Woburn License Commission that will allow alcohol to be sold at the event.

Lining up the acts for the festival was another task, and the organizers eventually landed eight bands, including one of the bigger names in the area, Ronnie Earl & the Broadcasters. A veteran of the New England blues scene for nearly 40 years, Earl worked with some legendary blues acts like Otis Rush, Koko Taylor, Kim Wilson and Jimmie Vaughn (Stevie Ray's brother) of the Fabulous Thunderbirds, and then joined the ensemble Roomful of Blues in 1979 as its lead guitar player. He then put together his own band that has released more than two dozen albums, and is a two-time (1997 and 1999) winner of the Blues Foundation's W.C. Handy Award as Blues Guitar Player of the Year.

RONNIE EARL AND THE BROADCASTERS above right and the Brian Templeton Band are just two of the many performers on tap for the Library Park Blues Festival to be held in Woburn on Saturday August 24th.

Earl will headline the Libarary Park Blues Festival.

"The hardest part was getting (Earl) booked," said Dever. "But once we were able to do that, we were able to attract a lot of other acts."

Woburn native Brian Templeton will be the Master of Ceremonies and perform with his band prior to Ronnie Earl & the Broadcasters. Other acts who have signed on are the Brickyard Blues Bank, the Charlie Keating Band, the Joe Pappas Band, the 12:01 Blues Band, the Lydia Warren Band, and the Chris Fitz Band.

The event starts at 11 a.m. and is scheduled to end at about 10 p.m. Tickets are $20 for adults (those under age 12 accompanied by an adult are free), and all profits from the festival will be donated to local veterans organizations, like the Rogers VA Hospital in Bedford, Comfort Warriors and Friends of Woburn Veterans. Advance tickets and further information about the details of the event is available at www.bluesforveterans.org. Tickets are also available for sale at the Office of Veterans Affairs at the Woburn Senior Center on School Street in North Woburn, the American Legion hall on Lexington Street in West Woburn, and My Glass in the South End, among other locations.

"All the money we raise other than paying the bands is going to support local veterans, the people who need it here at home," said Dever. "We thought keeping it local was a very important part of the event."

Dever notes the sponsorship of the event has been vital. More than three dozen organizations and individuals have donated money to put on

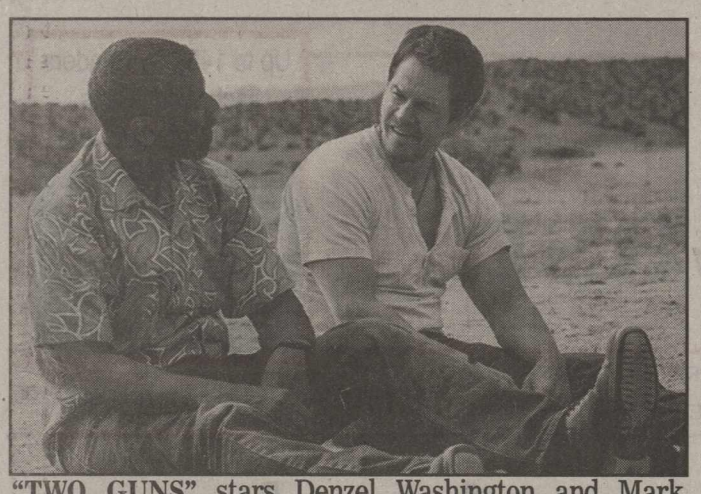
by Paul Feely

"Two Guns" a playful flick



"TWO GUNS" stars Denzel Washington and Mark Wahlberg, who play two bank robbers who didn't know that they were each undercover government operatives. It's a playful buddy flick.

"TWO GUNS"
GRADE: **

Filmmaker Baltasar Kormakur ("Contraband") keeps the action flying, the banter hot and heavy, the visuals pretty and doesn't get in the way of the great chemistry between his stars Denzel Washington and Mark Wahlberg, who carry this B- story into far more fertile turf than it deserves.

The action begins with smoothie Bobby Trench (Denzel Washington) and fast-talker Stig Stigman (Mark Wahlberg) starting a grease fire in a diner as a diversion and then rob a rural Texas bank across the street that contains $43 million hidden in the safety deposit boxes.

It turns out neither bank robber is a bad guy and neither knew the other was also a government undercover operative, Trench with the DEA and Stig with Naval intelligence. Both agents were on a covert mission to infiltrate the powerful Mexican drug cartel headed by Papi Greco (Edward James Olmos), a mission they botched.

In the ensuing chase for the money that is lost after Stig hands it over to his Naval officer boss (James Marsden), everything goes wrong for our boys including that they are hunted by the DEA, Naval intelligence, the CIA and the Mexican drug cartel. The boys have to re-connect with each other after separating and must now learn to trust each other, as they've both been double-crossed by people they trusted and are in danger of losing their lives.

The movie isn't believable for a second, but is always entertaining, slick and well-acted. The supporting cast members of note are Paula Patton, as the DEA agent and lover of Denzel; and Bill Paxton as the ruthless psychopathic CIA leader.

2 Guns is a fun summer movie because Wahlberg and Washington share some of the best on screen chemistry you will see all year.

Washington and Wahlberg use the charm that has made them two of the best and most likable actors in the business. It'sentertaining seeing the joy on Wahlberg's face as he launches into another comical discussion with Washington, and watching Washington display that confidence and command he has of the screen.

It's a playful buddy flick, in the mode of Bonnie and Clyde, and its anti-hero heroes are amoral and its villains are scoundrels of the lowest order. It's that kind of a disposable slippery thriller.

"THE WOLVERINE"
GRADE: ***

The Wolverine is a fascinating look at the iconic X-Men character and how his past intersects with his present. It's a bleak journey that's often punctuated with violence - the action scenes are ferocious and vicious, with weapons (guns, knives, arrows, claws, and more), explosions, and bloody hand-to-hand combat.

Logan, aka The Wolverine (Hugh Jackman), is lost in the far reaches of the wilderness. Struggling with nightmares that plague him daily - often starring his beloved, late Jean Grey (Famke Janssen) - Logan wants out of his immortal, superhuman existence.

But a stranger from Japan named Yukio (Rila Fukushima) won't let him be. After Logan avenges the death of a grizzly bear at the hands of a cruel hunter, Yukio finds him and spirits him to Japan at the behest of Kenuichio Harada (Will Yun Lee), a Japanese soldier in Nagasaki whom Logan had saved.

Harada is dying, and he longs for Logan's immortality. His death sparks a kidnapping attempt on the life of Mariko (Tao Okamoto), Harada's granddaughter, which raises bigger questions that even Wolverine himself may not be able to answer.

Superhero movies often use their characters' pain as catalysts for more mind-bending (and sometimes mindless) action sequences. Not so with The Wolverine, director James Mangold's venture into the X-Men canon. Here, Mangold informs the action with a relevant, significant look into Logan's origin story, turning the past into Wolverine's haunting - and ultimately freeing - present. Jackman is more than well-equipped to handle the challenges he faces, and Fukushima and Okamoto stand shoulder to shoulder with Jackman, sometimes saving him from the brink - which isn't often the case with female characters in superhero movies.

The Wolverine doesn't let a romantic plotline interfere with the action, which borders on the overwhelming. The script still sounds wooden at times.

Library hosts Farino photo discussion

On Sunday, August 11 at 2 PM, Woburn Public Library volunteer Linda Olsson will present the next Community Conversation featuring photographs from the Patrick Farino Collection at Woburn Public Library.

After identifying photos recently published in the Daily Times Chronicle, they will move on to a wide variety of photographs including: Atlantic Gelatin, the Bowladrome, Mayor William Shaughnessy's inauguration, Borden's Ice Cream plant, 1950's Little League, May Day at Saint Charles, and St. Anthony's First Communion in 1954 and 1955, as well as many others.

If handicapped access required, please call the week before at 781-933-0148.

The event is free to the public and refreshments will be provided.

Doors will open at 1:45 p.m. and the program will run from 2pm to 4pm.

Volunteers sought to help out

Reading Fall Street Faire Sunday, September 8

Reading, MA – Get out your appointment book – or your smart phone. The Reading Fall Street Faire will be held on Sunday September 8 from Noon until 5 PM. The Faire Committee and volunteers are working hard to bring back the popular events from the past and add new attractions for this year's Faire. If you are interested in getting involved now or the day of the Faire, please let the Committee know.

The Faire will kick off with a 5K race in the morning, and starting at Noon there will be well over a hundred vendors and exhibitors, live music, dancers, special guests and great food.

Additionally, the Committee is bringing back popular amusements, the children's area and all the other exciting events the attendees love to see. More details will be forthcoming as planning unfolds.

The Coordinating Committee is composed of town residents. The range of opportunities for volunteers is very broad. You can take on as much or as little responsibility as you choose! For example, you might have great internet skills and could help us with social media or the website. Alternatively, you might be available on the day of the Faire and help in the kid's arena, with the race or spend an hour or so setting up or breaking down. Whatever your skill, talent, or desire, the Committee wants you!

This Faire has now become part of the fabric of the community, and the success of this Faire is largely due to the volunteers that give their time and energy. Vendors look forward to the Faire and new vendors are attracted each year. This year will mark the fifth year and the success enjoyed over the years promises to go on for years to come.

Please visit the Faire website at www.readingfallstreetfaire.com for contact information or email FallStreetFaire@ci.reading.ma.us or call 781-942-9075 to get involved. A Committee member will be back in touch shortly.

Family fun at the beach

Marblehead Meanderings beach exploration will take place on Wednesday, August 14 from 10 - 11:30 a.m. This walk is ideal for families with children ages 4 - 12.

Enjoy a morning at Grace Oliver Beach in Marblehead during low tide, and discover the living wonders of the sandy coastline. Search for periwinkles, hermit crabs, tiny fish and other sea creatures. Wear footwear that can get wet and muddy.

Meet at the Grace Oliver Beach. Feel free to bring a picnic lunch. $9 adults, $7 children. Advance registration is required by calling the Mass Audubon at 978-887-9264.

FUND TIMES RETURN (TEWKSBURY)

"Tewksbury is looking for a contractor that would be used in the Sutton Brook Superfund Site Cleanup," notes the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

"'They're going through the bid process right now,' said Town Manager Richard Montuori. 'Bids will be due sometime in mid-August.'

"As previously reported in the Crier, the Sutton Brook Superfund site, formerly Rocco's Landfill, operated from 1957 until 1988. Drums and contaminated soil were removed from the site from 2000 through 2002. Crews conducted site investigations and remedy evaluations from 2004 through 2007. The remedial design project began in 2010 and was completed in 2013, paving the way for the cap construction.

"According to an EPA presentation made back in June, excavation would begin in fall 2013, a southern lobe vertical barrier would be in-place by 2014, and a northern lobe vertical barrier would complete the project in 2015. An extraction well will also be constructed allowing contaminated groundwater to be extracted from the site and sent into the sewer system for treatment at the Lowell Wastewater Treatment Plant.

"The landfill cap will prevent storm water from going through the contaminated landfill and has numerous structural requirements...

"The bulk of the remediation work, according to Don McElroy, the project manager, will be conducted from May to September, during the workday hours, with 100-truck trips estimated daily during the height of the project in the summers of 2014 and 2015...

"Work is expected to begin in September."

CANYON BOOM (BURLINGTON)

"The Gutierrez Company appeared in front of the Planning Board recently with its newest proposal for the 'Canyon Site' as they are looking to rezone the property to General Industrial (IG)," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The last time there was any news about the property, which is 15.3 acres of state-owned land located adjacent to Wheeler Road at the end of Route 3 near Middlesex Turnpike and Route 128, a proposal to rezone the property and put in a Target was soundly defeated by Town Meeting in May 2011...

"The property, which currently has no zoning designation listed, has been deemed surplus by the state, which is seeking a buyer, who in this case, happens to be the Gutierrez Company.

"Scott Weiss, of the Gutierrez Company, presented the company's latest proposal during the most recent Planning Board meeting.

"He stated that Gutierrez wants to rezone the property from its current Residential zoning (RO) to a General Industrial (IG) District so the company can put in 'Class A' office space on the property.

"'We want to do what the town likes, which is office development,' said Weiss ..."

IN GENERAL (READING)

"The Board of Selectmen heard information ... regarding proposed improvements to the 128 Marketplace property, located at 1 General Way off Walkers Brook Drive," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The owner of the property, George Danis, has developed plans to demolish a portion of the old mill building at the site, create an employee parking area, and construct an addition on the front of the building (located next to the K & G Mensmart store)...

"The Selectmen were also informed that Peter Donovan, part-owner of the Wine Bunker at One General Way, intends to sell the business, citing 'financial hardship' as the reason...

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper or look on line for up-to-date information about your city or town.

MIDDLESEX EAST appearing in Daily Times – Chronicle (Reading, Woburn, Winchester, Burlington, Wakefield), Lynnfield Villager, No. Reading Transcript, Wilmington & Tewksbury Town Crier, Stoneham Independent

Athletes & Activities

by Paul Feely

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA: Kurt Warner is the second quarterback in the NFL to throw at least 100 touchdown passes for two different teams in his career. Who was the first?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•Stonehill College football head coach Robert Talley and his staff will welcome 39 freshmen to preseason training camp, which will begin on Thursday, August 15.

The 39 signees include 18 on the offensive side of the ball and 21 defensive players. The incoming freshman class includes 17 from Massachusetts, six from New York and Connecticut and five from New Jersey.

This year's freshman class includes ANDREW KIBARIAN, A DEFENSIVE END FROM LYNNFIELD.

Stonehill finished its 2012 season with a 5-5 record overall, including a 5-3 clip in the Northeast-10 to mark the Skyhawks first winning season in Conference play since head coach Robert Talley's first season in 2007. Stonehill was named the Northeast-10 "Team of the Year" by d2football.com, while Talley received the website's Conference Coach of the Year and the Skyhawks' nationally-televised matchup with No. 3 University of New Haven was labeled as blog's NE-10 Game of the Year.

Preseason training camp opens on Thursday, August 15, and all training sessions are open to the public. Stonehill's training camp schedule will be announced in the coming weeks. The Skyhawks open their 2013 season on Saturday, September 7, at Bloomsburg (Pa.) University at 1 p.m. Their home opener is the following week when Stonehill kicks off its Northeast-10 schedule with the "Battle for the Ol' Bronze Hawk" against Saint Anselm College on Saturday, September 14, at 6 p.m.

•Need some help with the trivia question? It wasn't Joe Montana.

•Two members of the Stonehill College women's cross country and track and field programs have earned Capital One Academic All-District I honors as selected by College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) members in Division II from the East Region.

SENIOR CAROLINE MCBRIDE (NORTH READING, MASS./NORTH READING) and junior Elizabeth LaRegina (New Fairfield, Conn./New Fairfield) were both selected to the Division II Academic All-District I cross country/track & field first team, marking the third-straight year Stonehill has had women's Academic All-District honorees, giving them eight selections overall in that span. It marks the second-straight year McBride has received All-District status, while LaRegina is honored for the first time.

McBride, a six-time NE-10 Academic All-Conference performer for cross country and indoor and outdoor track and field, earns her second-straight Capital One Academic All-District selection after recently graduating with a 3.60 cumulative grade point average as an American History major at Stonehill, with a minor in journalism. She earned Academic All-Conference honors for cross country three-straight years, also receiving the sport's NE-10 Scholar-Athlete Sport Excellence Award this past fall, indoor track twice and outdoor track once, with the senior honors still pending. McBride earned Stonehill's Edward E. Martin Senior Scholar-Athlete Award at its annual senior student-athlete dinner. She has been named to the NE-10 Commissioner's Honor Roll and Athletic Director's Honor Roll every semester, while also collecting the Division II ADA Academic Achievement Award three times.

McBride is a 12-time U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association (USTFCCCA) All-East Region performer for the three sports she competes in, posting her second cross country honor with a fourth place finish at the East Regional this past fall in a personal best time of 21:49 on the six-kilometer course. McBride has collected All-Region honors for indoor track & field four times, with three honors for the 5000-meter run to go with a 3000-meter run achievement this past winter. The two-time Northeast-10 Conference 10,000-meter champion is a six-time All-Region performer during the outdoor track & field season, earning the honors for the 10,000-meter and 5000-meter runs three times each over her career.

McBride earns Capital One Academic All-District I honors for the second-straight year.

McBride has earned a pair of All-New England honors over her career, including a third place finish in 38:10.31 at the New England Outdoor Track & Field, hosted by Stonehill, in May. She is an eight time All-Northeast-10 performer, with three cross country awards, including a fifth place finish at the 2012 NE-10 Championships in 18:49 over five-kilometers, three indoor track honors and a pair of outdoor honors. McBride posted a school-record time of 37:16.70 for the 10,000 during a sixth place finish at the Duke Invitational, while her season-best time of 18:04.23 for the outdoor 5000 was good for sixth at Holy Cross. She earned All-Conference honors with a second place finish in the 5000-meter run (17:57.07) at the NE-10 Indoor Championships in February. She captured her second NE-10 10,000-meter championship with a time of 38:29.88 as a junior, going on to place second a week later at the New England Championships (37:31.77) for her first All-New England performance.

The Stonehill women's cross country and track and field programs continued their run of excellence during the 2012-13 academic year. Cross country captured its fourth straight Northeast-10 and NCAA Division II East Regional championships last fall, marking the program's 11th NE-10 title and 13th-straight trip to the NCAA Division II Championships overall. Stonehill placed third at the NE-10 Indoor Track & Field Championships in February and were fifth at the Outdoor Championships in May.

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: Fran Tarkenton.

•DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please email it to readingchronicle@comcast.net, or mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports. P.O. Box 240, Reading, Ma., 01867, or call Paul at 781-944-2200.

Grilled Margherita Pizza

Over time, standard recipes develop unique personalities based on location. Pizza, for example, is traditionally baked in a brick oven in Italy, baked in a pan in Greece, made with thick crust in a deep dish in Chicago, and twice backed in Detroit. In Rhode Island, however, pizza is grilled. Born and bread in the heart of Rhode Island in the 1980's this legendary pizza preparation is not only fun to make, it's easy and delicious! The crunch and smoky flavor of the grilled dough paired with classic pizza toppings makes for a unique yet familiar dinner perfect for any cookout or gathering. This recipe calls for the traditional toppings inherent to any Margherita pizza: ripe tomatoes, fresh mozzarella and basil, representing the three colors of the Italian flag. Grilled instead of baked, this Margherita puts a New England flair on the Italian classic. Everyone likes pizza, but everyone will love this version!

Ingredients

1 raw pizza dough, 8oz

2 tablespoons olive oil

1 vine ripe Roma tomato

1 large mozzarella ovalini

½ cup shredded whole milk mozzarella

½ cup crushed tomatoes

8 basil leaves, chiffonade (cut into thin strips)

1 ounce Parmesan Regianno

¼ teaspoon of salt

¼ teaspoon of pepper

INSTRUCTIONS

1. On a well-oiled cutting board, stretch dough by hand until thin. Stretch the dough out with your fingers, not a rolling pin.

See the video on our website food.homenewshere.com

2. Place dough on a well-seasoned, preheated, cast iron stove top grill pan over medium heat and cook until golden brown grill marks form (about 4 minutes). Flip dough and lower heat. '

3. Add sliced mozzarella, sliced roma tomatoes, shredded cheese and crushed tomatoes.

4. Cover using an inverted sauté pan or tall pot cover. Cook until cheese has melted.

5. Remove and top with basil, Parmesan, pinch of salt and pepper and a drizzle of olive oil. Enjoy!

Give your home an energy makeover

Renovations that take inventory of energy use and strive toward efficiency have grown increasingly popular over the years. Homeowners fed up with high utility bills want to conserve costs, and there are a number of ways to revamp a home to be more energy efficient.

The first step in a home energy makeover is to find out where your home is losing money. Certain municipal and environmental agencies offer home assessments, during which they will do a complete walk-through of your home and highlight areas that can be improved. Private companies also perform energy audits on a home. They may be able to point out appliances, windows or landscaping issues that could be compromising the efficiency of a home. These people may have a more intimate knowledge of insulation ratings and window efficiency ratings than the average homeowner.

In addition to having an energy audit on your home to save money on utility bills, a professional audit may make you eligible for tax incentives and rebates. That can mean even more savings and may even increase the value of your home.

Until a thorough energy assessment can be made, there are some easy and relatively inexpensive fixes any homeowner can undertake to help improve energy efficiency.

* Clean air filters. Trapped dust and debris in a filter makes furnaces and air conditioners work harder. Once filters are free from dust, air can blow more smoothly through the system.

* Plug leaks. Air leaks could be sucking energy out of your home and money out of your wallet. Once you find any leaks, you can use weather stripping and caulking to seal up breaches and save energy and money.

Festival from S-1

the show, including most notably Bill Sullivan from Edward Jones Financial Services, local businessman John Flaherty and his wife Kathryn, Lynch-Cantillon Funeral Home, and the Daily Times Chronicle.

"They've stepped up big time," said Dever. "The first major sponsor was Lynch-Cantillon, and then we got Bill Sullivan, who wrote us a $5,000 check. And we've gotten a whole lot of $200 and $500 contributions from generous people and businesses that have really helped us meet our expenses."

Dever said he is expecting a crowd of as many as 3,000-3,500 "if things break right," particularly the weather. The show is being promoted though local media and by WZLX's Carter Alan on his weekly "Sunday Morning Blues" radio show.

"Every time (Alan) mentions our show, our website goes crazy with the number of hits," said Dever. "We hope people from throughout the Boston area will come to support what should be a terrific cause."

foyer through a sidelight and three slender glass panes near the top of the entry door. The longish foyer leads past the coat closet and into the large open gathering space at the rear, where the living room, dining room and kitchen flow together.

Natural light spills into the entire space through two wide window sets. The dining room's glass doors slide open, offering easy access to a partially covered patio. If the environment is buggy, the patio could be screened in. A raised eating bar bounds a kitchen with counters on three sides and cupboards on two.

Standing at the kitchen sink, you can still appreciate the ever-changing seasonal landscape outside. The door across the room opens into a utility room with a link to the Ravenden's two-car garage. This garage is brighter than most, due to a row of multi-paned windows that span its front.

Owners' suite amenities include a roomy walk-in closet, and a two-section bathroom with a double vanity.

This Week's Sampler: Ravenden

Economical Ravenden has Craftsman charm

Craftsman-style windows, porch supports, and decorative gable ends lend their timeless appeal to the Ravenden. This small ranch-style home offers a combination of openness, economy and contemporary features that both empty nesters and young families will find appealing.

Shake-textured shingles fill the triangular gable fronts, while also adding visual appeal to the framed-out bases of the tapered porch supports. Both are Craftsman elements, as is the covered porch. It's easy to imagine an old-fashioned wooden porch swing hanging from the ceiling on the right end, or a couple of cushioned wicker chairs set out along the front.

Family gathering spaces fill the left side; bedrooms and bathrooms are on the right. Muted light filters into the
